Planning For Future Key For These Susquehanna County Farmers

Located in the shadows of Elk Mountain, a popular ski resort, provides the Wilmots with a spectacular view, however the pressures of development are getting greater each year.

Sandra Wilmot feeds the calves. A graduate of the Dairy-MAP program, Sandra says she would recommend the program to others, especially young farmers.

Mark Wilmot prepares to feed their 45 milking Holsteins. All forages are tested frequently and the top dress balanced accordingly.

Editor's Note: Every year several hundred Pennsylvania dairy farms go out of business. Changing times make incorporating sound management technologies important for the efficiency and profitability of dairy farm businesses.

In an effort to respond to the need for up-to-date business management information, many dairy industry officials and organizations have turned to Penn State's Dairy-MAP program as one way to help stabilize and reverse the downward trend of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania.

This is the first of three farm interviews with family members who have participated in one of the Dairy-MAP seminars held across the state last year.

CLIFFORD TOWNSHIP (Susquehanna Co.) — For Mark and Sandy Wilmot, farming on top of a hill has its rewards. The biggest plus is the incredible view. But when that hill is also home to Elk Mountain Ski Area, there are unique challenges to overcome.

When Mark was young, he can remember when the area was full of farms. Slowly, the active farms have disappeared. When the Wilmots were married in 1967, there were about 50 farms in the area. By the time the dairy buyout took place there were only 18. Today the number has dropped to about one dozen.

National DHIA Rules To Change, Testing Options Broaden

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Two major aspects of testing the production of dairy cattle in the United States are being considered for change in 1995.

According to Phil Dukas, manager of the National Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) Inc., headquartered in Columbus, Ohio, and reports published in the organization's newsletter for DHIA leaders, rules governing the records collecting process, as well as subsequent changes to the data-collection options are set for change in 1995.

Although specifics are to be discussed and worked out during late winter and spring, Dukas said that for several years a call for rules changes has been growing from member-producers and local DHIA leadership.

The major thrust of change is to evaluate rules on the basis of emphasizing information over enforcement.

The recipient of the information can then decide if certain herd or cow records are useful and accurate.

According to the newsletter report, there are three major reasons for such a change: one is related to the legal costs involved with DHIAs serving in an enforcement capacity; another reason is because of the increased flow of information to allied industry; and the other reason has to do with the use of computer technology and the uses of records information by numerous other agencies.

In essence, the rules changes sought would free DHIAs from having to serve as the "integrity police" for the industry, and thus release the organization from being involved in specific legal battles in questionable situations.

The concept for change includes shifting responsibility for determining accuracy of an individual producer's reported data to those organizations which use the data.

Some of those organizations include the various breed oranizations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the artificial insemination industry.

This means those other organizations are going to have to figure out what data they can use from what the farmer can afford to have collected. At the same time, the farmer will have to figure out what kind of testing program he needs to have his data qualify for consideration by outside groups.

This is expected to eliminate a significant amount of legal liability for DHIA member-fraud, costs tied up in appeals and civil suits, and the other associated costs which are currently being shouldered by all members, the majority of whom are honest, Dukas said.

Delmarva Broiler

EDISON, NJ

NOVEMBER 30, 1994

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was mixed and irregular and below expectations at several plants. Offerings ranged fully adequate to ample and were generally slow in clearing. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights varied in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 47 to 58 cents. Trade sentiment was no better than steady. In the parts complex, supplies were at least adequate on all but wings which were adequate to well cleared. Boneless skinless breasts were readily available. Bone-in breasts were irregularly balanced.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were generally unchanged except jumbo and small brown prices were lower in New England. The market tone was steady to weak. Demand was mixed across the full range, and was mostly moderate as the post-holiday restocking dwindled. Supplies were adequate or available. Breaking stock supplies were adequate for the light to moderate demand, and prices were higher in the Central States region. Live hen offerings were adequate to fully adequate for the very light to moderate demand, and the undertone was about steady.

Prices were close to unchanged on light type fowl compared to prior week. Offerings have increased and were usually sufficient to cover slaughter requirements. Sales on heavy hens were too few to report. Offerings have slowed and were short to no better than in balance. Finished sales were seasonally active and clearing floor stocks at most locations. Undertone at least steady.

NORTHEAST REGION BROILER FRYER REPORT FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest for ready to cook whole broiler/fryers was generally disappointing. Offerings were fully adequate for the current light buyer interest. Retail and distributive movement was not picking up to the extent expected. Trade sentiment was usually reported as steady at best. In the parts complex dealers were also discouraged with current business. Most hoped that promotional activity coupled with the first of the month would stimulate additional consumer buying interest.

WHEAT PRICES WERE SUPPORTED BY GOOD EXPORT DEMAND FROM AFRICA AND LATE FUND BUYING ON THE BOARD DUE TO REPORTS THAT CHINA MAY SOON BE IN THE U.S. EXPORT MARKET FOR WHEAT NEEDS. CORN PRICES MOVED SLIGHTLY HIGHER FROM CARRY- OVER EXPORT SUPPORT AND STRONGER WHEAT PRICES. PROFIT TAKING DROVE SOYBEAN PRICES MODERATELY LOWER ON SOYOIL WEAKNESS AND CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT IN THE BEAN CROP CONDITION IN BRAZIL. WHEAT 6 TO 8 CENTS HIGHER. CORN 1 TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM MIXED. SOYBEANS 5 TO 7 CENTS LOWER. EXPORT DEMAND HAS BEEN GOOD FOR WHEAT THIS WEEK, ESPECIALLY AFTER TODAY'S AFRICAN PURCHASE. CHINA HAS BEEN REPORTED SEEKING SUBSTANTIAL AMOUNTS OF WHEAT AND OPTIMISM FOR U.S. TO BE IN THE RUNNING WAS SUPPORTIVE TO PRICES. FUND BUYING SET IN LATE IN THE TRADING PERIOD, PUSHING WHEAT PRICES MODERATELY HIGHER. STRONGER CORN PRICES WERE INFLUENCED BY ADVANCES IN WHEAT PITS AND GOOD EXPORT DEMAND. THE LACK OF DELIVERIES AGAINST THE DECEMBER CONTRACT ADDED TO HIGHER CORN PRICES. SOYBEAN PRICES MOVED MODERATELY LOWER FOR THE SECOND DAY, PRESSURED BY LOWER SOYOIL PRICES AND THE BUMPER CROP EFFECT. INDICATIONS BRAZIL'S BEAN CROP IS LOOKING GOOD AND RECEIVING BENEFICIAL RAINFALL SPURRED FUND SELLING ON THE BOARD.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

DECEMBER 5-11, 1994

HUMAN RIGHTS DAY, DECEMBER 10.

OLD SAINT NICK

The lives of saints have always been shrouded in mystery — the stuff of legends — and St. Nicholas is no exception. We know that he was bishop of Myra in Lycia, Asia Minor, during the fourth century. He's credited with saving three sisters from lives of ill repute by throwing bags of gold into their house (some say down the chimney, some say through the window) to provide for their dowries. In many places here and abroad children still hang their stockings by the chimney or place their shoes by the window for St. Nicholas to fill with presents and sweets on the eve of his feast day, December 6. As patron saint of children, it's easy to see how Sinte Klaas (a Dutch dialect form of St. Nicholas) became Santa Claus.

Generosity is more charitable than wealth.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Use soap scraps to lubricate stubborn drawer glides and zippers.

EARTHWISE

Every year Americans send about 2.2 billion holiday greeting cards. But it's not just a postal problem. It's also a tremendous resource use and waste management problem. There are lots of beautiful cards available — choose the ones with post-consumer recycled content. Find a new use for the cards you've received. Many people save this year's cards to serve as next year's gift tags. Tear off the back and use it for your grocery list. And finally, take those cards to the recycling center.

BUTTERMILK BRAN MUFFINS

1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups all-bran cereal
1 1/4 cups buttermilk
1 egg
1/3 cup vegetable oil

Combine first 5 ingredients. In separate bowl, stir together cereal and buttermilk and let stand until cereal is softened. Add egg and oil; beat well. Add dry ingredients and stir only until moistened. Spoon batter into greased muffin tin. Bake at 400° F for about 20 to 25 minutes.

Makes 12 muffins.

OPINION

A Mandate To Treat Sinkholes

In years past, erosion ditches and sinkholes were considered places to discard junk from around the farm. Some farmers even called them "God-sends" because of the convenience these ditches and holes lent to the dumping process.

Through modern conservation practices, the erosion ditches have been tackled and conquered. Sod strips in waterways, contour farming, and no-til cultivation practices have greatly reduced soil erosion. And in many places what once was an ugly conduit of rushing muddy water in every heavy rain storm has now become a pastoral asset to the farm.

But sinkholes are still to be conquered, partly because they appear unexpectedly, and partly because farmers don't understand the environmental impact of the sinkhole.

In part two of Andy Andrews' series on the subject in this issue, Bruce Benton, a geologist with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) says that many farmers may not realize that sinkholes can be a direct conduit to a water supply. So whatever you throw in a sinkhole will show up in your water supply.

Farmers remain afraid to talk about sinkhole problems because they fear DER intervention and/or costly repair costs. Actually, under a new Pequea-Mill Creek Project initiative in Lancaster County, funds are available to repair several sinkholes free of cost to use as examples of how it should be done. One of the objectives of the initiative is to identify four or five sinkholes in the watershed area that have been used as dump sites. For no charge, the project together with the help of the NRCS and the Lancaster County Conservation District, will assess, design, and implement a complete sinkhole cleanup and repair on a cooperating farm.

If you have a sinkhole, don't use it as a dump. Also be sure not to mix farm chemicals near a sinkhole or put chemical containers into it. Don't use sinkholes as outlets for drainage systems. The nutrients carried from cropfields in the drainage systems can be channeled directly into the groundwater if you do.

As sinkholes become more of a problem, our understanding of them must also increase. It's time now to treat sinkholes as we have treated the erosion ditches on our farms. To be good stewards of the land, we have a mandate to do this.

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Prepare For The 21st Century

Dr. Luther Tweeten, Ohio State University, recently stated, "Agriculture of the next decade and beyond will be technologically advanced, internationally competitive, environmentally sound, market-oriented, demand-driven, financially innovative, and managerially intensive."

If you are planning to be in agriculture for 10 or more years, you should re-read Dr. Tweeten's statement at least three more times. In one sentence, he has given one of the best predications of agriculture in the 21st century.

Agriculture has changed a lot in the last 15 years. It will change even more over the next 10 years. The future belongs to those you are able to study and adopt to these changes. The others will either leave agriculture or work for those of you who are managing change.

We are beginning the winter agriculture meeting season. There will be a wide variety of topics and subjects covered. Consider stretching your learning comfort zone and expose yourself to topics on risk management, financial management, business planning, goal setting, etc.

Penn State will be expanding the Dairy MAP program to enhance the dairy farmer's knowledge of managing a business. Re-read the first sentence and seek knowledge in those areas Dr. Tweeten identified.

To Balance Soil Fertility

Best management practices (BMPs) are very important to the environment.

One very important BMP is balanced soil fertility. Farmers need to optimize all their production inputs and management decisions to produce crops in a highly efficient manner.

To do this, farmers must seek the right balance in each production step. Balance means using not too little nor too much.

Proper fertilization begins with a realistic yield goal and an understanding of what the crop needs to achieve that goal. Detailed field records and soil tests are important tool to base this decision.

Balanced nutrition is a key component of high yield management. It helps ensure that all nutrients are efficiently utilized to produce high yielding, high quality crops.

Take time now to review your field records and develop your fertilization program for 1995, taking into account yield goals and soil test results.

To Winterize Buildings

Winter is coming fast. The mild fall has allowed us to complete our fieldwork. Now is the time to turn our attention to winterizing our buildings.

Seal cracks to prevent drafts, especially around doors and fans. Look for mice holes and close them up. Monitor for mice and keep your rodent control program active.

Check wiring for exposed wires. Drain pipes that are subject to freezing. Make repairs to siding. Check and clean heating systems, including chimneys and filters.

Clean air inlets for the ventilation system. On curtain-sided barns, make sure the curtain is in good repair and fits tight against the building.

Winterize your buildings now before real winter weather arrives.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Energy and persistence will conquer all things."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CHANGE YOUR HEART
December 4, 1994

Background Scripture:
Matthew 3
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 40: 3-11

A friend of mine turned away from orthodox Christianity years ago because the church in which she was raised harped too much on sin and depravity. "Are all human beings as miserable wretches as my preacher pro claimed Sunday after Sunday?" she asked me.

The person who raised this issue, I need to add, is a very fine and loving person with high moral standards and compassion for others. I sympathize with her reaction for too often the gospel is presented in a very one-sided manner. The church I attended as a child was always so overpoweringly somber, all too aware of the tragedy of sin and the need for repentance.

Later, however, I came to realize that the gospel must always be balanced between sin and redemption. These two polarities must always be kept in perspective. To speak only of sin is to deny the good news of the gospel. To speak only of redemption is to fail to understand the need for the gospel.

WHAT MAKES IT "GOOD"?

But we must never forget that what makes the "news" good news is the assurance that the love of God is more powerful and pervasive than the rebelliousness of His children. The mood of the gospel is one of hope and joy. I regret that my friend and so many others haven't heard the gospel in all its fullness. While I agree with my friend that we must not get hung up on sin, neither should we neglect the reality or complexity of sin. In my first pastorate I took communion to a shut-in who had been confined to her house for many years. Whenever I prayed the prayer of general confession, she would always interrupt, saying, "There is no need for that; I haven't done anything bad since you were here last; in my condition, what could I do?"

I was so intimidated that I failed to answer her question. Today I would probably say that sin is not always a matter of what we've done or not done. Often it is a matter of what we feel and think and are. Who is so righteous that in the presence of God he or she will not feel a sense of inadequacy, of missing the mark? I don't have to carry a perpetual load of guilt to know that I haven't lived up to the best that God has placed within me.

IN GOD'S IMAGE

At this particular moment, I can't think of anything I have lately done or haven't done that demands repentance. Nevertheless, in God's presence I repent of self-centeredness, prejudice, self-deception, self-righteousness, pride, ignorance and more. So, in God's presence there is never a time when I do not need to seek a change of heart. At the same time I remember how wonderful it is to be God's child. Instead of thinking of myself as a piece of moral garbage—I heard one TV evangelist put it, I remember that I am created in His image, wonderfully endowed as are all His children with far more potential than I will likely fulfill. So the tragedy is not that I am a miserable wretch and act that way, but that I am God's creature and fail to live that way. Repentance frees me to return to what I was when God created me.

John the Baptist comes, saying, "Repent, for the kingdom of God is at hand" (3:2). And then he goes on to say, 'Bear fruit that befits repentance" (3:8). Repentance that does not change our hearts is not repentance. I need mine changed daily, if you don't, more power to you.

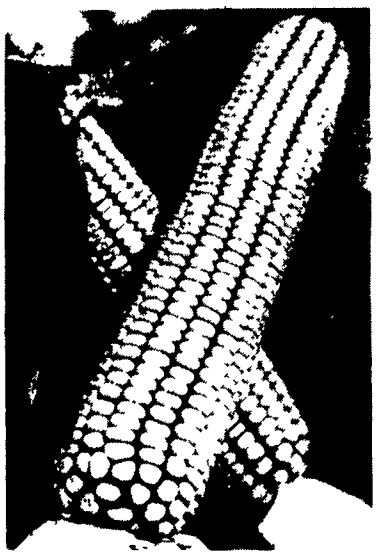
When So Much Depends On Planting the Right Seed...



You're In Good Company.

When you have to make seed decisions that will determine the success of your operation, your Northrup King dealer is good company. He offers advice you can trust.

Your dealer knows you can't afford to plant anything less than the best. He also knows you need more than good seed. You need seed that is right for your fields and the way you farm.

As a neighbor, your Northrup King dealer knows this area. He knows the land and what questions to ask to help you choose varieties that can yield maximum return from your fields.

Your dealer listens to your needs. He also has a lot to talk about, drawing on over 110 years of Northrup King history, experience and innovation.

Northrup King leadership in reasearch, genetic engineering, biotechnology and seed technology represent a continuing investment in the future. We want to make sure you have seeds that will meet not only today's needs, but tomorrow's as well.

Our commitment to quality carries through from research programs to precise production and seed conditioning. Innovative technology helps Northrup King seed achieve its full potential under your management.

That's what really counts...the results you get in the fields.

The new Q-Bit™ seed container, in addition to being a more efficient way to handle seed, it is better for our environment. As part of the Load and Go™ seed handling system, the Q-Bit container is one more example of technological leadership.

N4242 RM: 98-102
A top yielding hybrid, N4242 flowers early and dries down very fast to offer maximum return and profitability. It performs extremely well in either drought or cool wet growing seasons. Broad adaptability makes this a popular dual-purpose corn for grain or silage in northern Indiana, Ohio and early maturity areas of Pennsylvania. Superior stalk strength and ear retention. Works well with reduced tillage and continuous corn. Adapts to a wide range of soils and plant densities. Due to early maturity, N4242 is not generally recommended for dryland sandy soils of northwestern Indiana.

N5220 RM: 105-109
An exceptional dual-purpose hybrid for grain or silage, N5220 displays good standability for top yields. Early denting and extremely fast drydown help this newer hybrid deliver very heavy test weight, high quality grain throughout northern Indiana and Ohio, plus medium-early maturity areas of Pennsylvania. Attractive, healthy plants are best adapted for moderate to high densities on medium to fine textured soils Responds well to crop rotations.

N6822 RM: 110-114
An outstanding newer hybrid for the Eastern Corn Belt, N6822 displays very good staygreen to maintain high yield potential under continuous corn or standard rotations. Performs well on medium to fine textured soils when planted at moderate to high densities. Semi-flex ears produce good quality, heavy test weight grain. Very good standability and drought tolerance protect yield potential.

S 39-41
(X9339) RM: Late Group III
Achieving a new level of Phytophthora root rot protection, this high yielding variety is resistant to all races found throughout our area (from 1 to 11). New S 39-41 features the Rps1-k gene, which makes it resistant to all prevalent races. With excellent emergence, it is a superior choice for no-till drilling. Very good standability and stress tolerance promote optimum yields. It shows higher protein levels, too. Adapts to all row widths. Similar maturity to S 39-11 and Williams 82. PVP

Pa. Holstein Seeks Hall Of Fame Nominations

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pa. Holstein Association is seeking applications for its Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder Award program, and also nominations to its Hall of Fame program.

The deadline to apply for the Hall of Fame program is Dec. 31. The deadline for applying as a distinguished breeder is Jan. 15.

According to the association, the Hall of Fame Award program annually presents an award to a member of the association who is recognized for achievements and contributions to the Holstein industry, as well as those to other agricultural and community activities.

Completed applications should be sent to Ronald Wood, RD 2 Box 900, Mansfield, Pa., 16933.

Applications for the young breeder recognition program are also being sought and the contest is open to any state and national association member 21- to 40-years-old (as of Dec. 31) who owns, or has management responsibility for, a herd of cows.

The herd must be on official Dairy Herd Improvement Association test.

The breeder award is presented to recognize accomplishments of young Holstein breeders and to encourage them to establish goals that will aid in their management decisions and help achieve a profitable dairy operation.

Applications and more information for either program are available by writing or calling the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, Pa., 16801, (814) 234-0364. The facsimile number is 234-1698.

You'll produce as much as 440 pounds of additional yield per acre with Promise alfalfa. Over a three-year stand, this fine-stemmed variety can generate yields that could amount to more than 1,200 pounds of additional forage.

In trial after trial, Promise has lived up to its name, producing added tonnage over check varieties, with many stands lasting into the fifth year. And Promise demonstrates high resistance to the Northeast's most common alfalfa diseases.

With high yields, high disease resistance and the Hoffman name behind it, there aren't any better choices. That's our Promise!

York DHIA Awards Presented

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — Three dairy farms in York County have been recognized by the Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) for high herd production during the 1994 test year. The awards were presented during the county's annual DHIA meeting and recognition dinner, held November 22 at the Shrewsbury Fire Hall.

Smyser's Richlawn Farms topped the county as high herd for milk production, with a rolling herd average of 25,044 pounds milk, 771 protein add 974 fat on 75 cows. The award continues a several-year, high-milk-herd winning streak for brothers Rodney and Robert Smyser, East Berlin Road, York.

High protein production award was earned by Blue Knoll Farms, operated by the Ralph and Howard Fetrow families, Lewisberry Road, York. The 85-head herd finished the DHIA test year with a rolling herd average of 805 pounds protein, 24,923 milk and 846 fat.

Topping the list of herds by butterfat production was William Myers, Brodbecks, with 1046 pounds of butterfat, 22,068 milk and 697 protein rolling herd average on 48 cows.

Two herds shared honors for protein production improvement over the previous year. In the 600-pound category, the 94-head herd of Earl Furhman, Hanover, boosted production by 51 pounds, from 648 to 699 pounds. Hushon Farms, Delta, saw an increase of 103 pounds, from 570 to 672 pounds of protein, earning Vincent Hushon the top improvement award in the 500-pound category.

Hushon Farm also earned the Herd Management Award for 1994, with a total herd production point-score increase of 106 points. The 78-head herd completed the test year with a rolling herd average of 21,021 pounds milk, 740 pounds fat and 673 pounds protein.

Winner of the low Somatic Cell Count was Ed Calhoun, Glen Rock, with an average count of 127,000. Calhoun has been a perennial winner in the county for the SCC honors category.

In the individual cow awards,

Blue Knoll Farms claimed top milk honors with "Supreme," producing a 305-day record of 35,434 milk. The farm's "Missy" earned the Fetrow brothers a second individual award for her high 305-day protein production of 1123 pounds. William Myers won the high 305-day fat award with his herd member "June," finishing with 1472 pounds fat.

Honors for high lifetime production went to cow No. 19 in the herd of Melvin Lehr, East Berlin, with a nine-lactation total of 268,178 pounds of milk. Lifetime fat production award was won by Wayne Myers, Dover, for the 9852-fat-pounds produced in nine lactations by herd member Pam.

Two county dairy producers were elected to the York DHIA board of directors. Chosen to fill the three-year-terms were Don Avery and Keith Eisenhart. Neil McCullough, Cumberland County, regional director to the state DHIA board, noted in his report during the business session that producers can and have the right to seek the best production testing service they can find. He urged members to contact their board members if their DHIA service needs are not being adequately met.

Featured speaker was David Slusser, executive director of the Pennsylvania herd testing cooperative, who spoke about the constant change in the dairy industry and the need for DHIA to respond to those changes.

Slusser noted that DHIA, like most dairy farms, has had to tighten its economic belt and become more efficient. To reflect the actual costs of testing, fees have recently been increased to reduce the $400,000 annual deficit which was burdening the cooperative.

"We had hoped to avoid a fee adjustment and feel bad about that, but we do feel good about getting the organization into the black," said Slusser.

Bulk of the deficit was coming from the prior fees on two-times-daily testing structure. Fees on 2-X testing were running about 21-cents per cow behind the actual cost of servicing the herds. Most of the recent increase, Slusser affirmed, was on 2-X test fees, which are now at a more equitable level to cover the actual cost of testing.

Pa. DHIA is also encouraging 2-X clients to move to a one-time-daily test program, which allows field technicians to handle more herds and increase their pay levels. With the fee increases falling primarily on 2-X herds, many herds are expected to make the switch to one-time-monthly DHIA technician visits.

"AM/PM testing is just as or more efficient than 2-X testing," says Slusser, who added that testing, like many things, is not an exact science. "We are trying to be as accurate and as efficient as possible."

Both testing lab and employee costs have been reduced in recent efficiency moves by the state DHIA program. County fee and pay structures are now more uniform under the state consolidation, reducing the state's "total management nightmare" of prior years when each county had its own program, according to Slusser. Several more counties have recently merged into the combined state program, with one still to complete the process.

Slusser acknowledged that the year has been "real challenging" since he joined the state DHIA in January as executive director, after 23 years of operating his own dairy herd. However, membership numbers are growing at a four-to-one ratio, with more than 50 herds added to the testing program in recent months and only about ten dropped. Cow numbers are likewise inching upward, as herds on test continue to increase in size.

"Pennsylvania DHIA cares and is changing fast," reflected Slusser, concluding, "And, there are more changes to come."

Planning For Future Key For These Susquehanna County Farmers

"When a farm is sold around here it is purchased for the most part by an absentee owner," said Mark. "It's cost-prohibitive to buy land for dairy farming right here in the shadows of Elk Mountain."

So far the Wilmots have been lucky. They've been able to rent additional land at a very low price.

Although in the past they had considered buying more land, today they are happy leasing the ground they need and take care of the ground as if it were their own.

They do realize that the day may come when they can no longer rent the ground for farming purposes. That's why the Wilmots have an agreement in writing that ensures them some protection.

"We have it in writing, so we have use of the land for two years after we pay one year's rent to get our seed and fertilizer out of it," said Sandy. "We looked into buying more land when we were younger, but now we're not paying the taxes in rent, so it's stupid to think about buying."

Said Mark, "You're also a little more open when the day comes that you don't want to milk cows. You don't have all this land and wonder what to do with it."

One of eight children, Mark was born and raised on this farm, and knew he wanted to farm from the start.

"I graduated from high school in 1964 and it seemed that all I wanted to do was take over the farm," said Mark.

Sandra was not born on a farm, but got a fast agricultural education when her parents moved from New Jersey to a nearby farm when she was 10 years old.

Her father and mother wanted something that they could do together, so out of their three options — a hotel, gas station, or a farm — they chose farming.

"They didn't know what machine did what, they didn't know what you did when, they didn't know you had to breed a cow to make her give milk . . . they knew nothing. I thought it was great, because I was learning everything at the same time they were. We were a unit all working together. I thought I moved to heaven," said Sandy.

Even though times were tough, Sandy knew at the age of 12 she wanted to marry a farmer.

So in 1969, Mark and Sandra purchased the farm. A few years later they built an addition on the barn and on the house. They had two children, Eric and Julie, neither of whom are interested in taking over the farm.

Eric is in his last year at Carnegie-Mellon, studying industrial design, and Julie is in her second year at the College of Pharmacy in Albany, N.Y.

The realization that they will not farm forever coupled with the fact that neither of their children was interested in taking over the farm provided two of the reasons why Sandy participated in the Dairy MAP program last winter.

In the course of the program, participants learned about decision-making, developing long-range plans, making lists, and communicating with others.

"Everyone (who participated) got something different out of it," said Sandy, "Because whatever your weakness was, that's what you picked up on. I think the point was to make you realize how much you're handling and how much is really on your shoulders, and so you just don't assume it's all going to take care of itself. You've got to really sit down and really do a good job of thinking things out and planning things. If something's a problem, you've got to handle it."

Another plus of the program is that it provides an opportunity to get together with other farmers and compare notes.

"I really enjoy getting together with other farmers and just talking about your problems. Farmers always complain. They complain about the price of milk, they complain about how much work they do, oh they just complain . . . always have, always will. But this doesn't solve anything. All it does is make others think you're a bunch of bellyachers. But when you go to something like this and somebody directs the conversation so that you're actually talking and not complaining, you always get a lot out of it yourself because you always have things you can take home with you," she said.

Instructors often stress the importance of writing things down, a task that Sandy had already mastered.

"You never really know how much you do until you write the things down," she said. "If you write down what you do instead of always saying I have to do this and I have to do that, I think you feel better."

The Wilmots milk 45 Holsteins and raise 40-45 heifers. They made the move from grade to registered animals about 15 years ago in order to increase the value of their herd.

"We bought about 10 registered calves per year," said Sandy. "Bobby 'TR' Williams found us good calves. We did that for three years."

Once all the replacements were registered, the Wilmots gradually weeded out the grade animals.

"Now they're all registered and homebred," said Mark. "We have a closed herd."

Currently their herd averages 21,700 pounds of milk with 618 pounds of protein and 787 pounds of fat.

Although they are former members of NFO and still believe in the principles of the organization, the Wilmots are now independent producers and ship to Reddington Farms in New Jersey.

"I still am a firm believer (that) if farmers gripe and complain about the price of milk and if they want a certain price, the farmers have to price it. NFO is the only organization that I've ever found that seems as if they have a viable way of doing that," said Mark.

The NFO membership dropped after other farmers slowly moved to cooperatives or stopped farming.

Because there is no hired labor on the Wilmot's farm, the two try to make the most of everything. They do more haylage than dry hay and try to do more with mechanical help.

They also raise their own corn for corn silage and feed a topdressing formulated by their nutritionist.

For the past few years, Sandra has also bred the cows herself using the top bulls in the industry.

"I'm doing pretty well," she said.

The future for the Wilmots is exciting. They hope to be out of debt in the next four years and are looking at all of their options.

"The kids will be out of college in four years, and basically we'll be out of our long-term debt. That way we can milk fewer cows, or sell the cows and raise heifers. It will give us infinite options," said Sandra.

The couple has also tried to take control of their financial situation so they can retire comfortably without selling everything they have worked for.

"We've poured money into the farm, literally, for the past 25 years. And then when the kids started college, you look at things differently. It used to be a family farm and we all did things together. And we enjoyed working together. But without the kids, all of a sudden it's just Mark and me working hard. It really changes things. We didn't know it would change our outlook on the whole farm.

"Now we say, well, the farm is nice, but let's go visit the kids. All of a sudden it's back to farming and we have to change our goals."

Ironically, just before attending the MAP program, the Wilmots had a chance to focus on the changes that were about to happen.

Planning For Future Key

"The kids did chores for us for five days and we went to a state park, camping. All we did for five days was talk about the life changes that were going to happen in the next five years and sit down and make plans. One of the things they said at the MAP program was that you can't do this at home. You have to get away. And we had just done that. I was kind of a witness to the MAP program philosophy that it does work," she said.

Their ultimate long-term goal is to turn the farm over to Clifford Township and for it to remain open land.

The idea came from an older man who had done the same thing in the northern New Jersey town where Sandy once lived.

"Now it's the only open land available in northern New Jersey where you can go to see chipmunks and squirrels and learn how to fish. That man left the land and enough money to maintain it but they could never develop it," she explained. "We'd really like to do that, but to do that we have to retire without selling the property."

Their desire led to Sandra joining the Charles Givens organization.

"I wanted to learn how to make money with my money. Not that I had great sums of money, but everything has to start somewhere. I wanted to learn this and I didn't have any idea how to do it."

For three years the Wilmots searched for ways of making their money work harder.

"We went to financial planners, we went to different tax people, I read a couple books and I went to a couple of different seminars, and it seemed like they gave us total dead-end advice and I was really getting discouraged," she said.

Her life changed when she picked up the New York Times one day and on the best-seller list were three books by Charles Givens.

The books ended up being exactly what the Wilmots were looking for and they began applying the principles to their own finances.

So far they have had very good luck with their investments and hope to continue them in the future.

"We have our long-range goal for the farm but, in the meantime, we don't want to work till we kill ourselves and not have any money to enjoy life," she said. "We've worked hard. I guess the main change in the philosophy is that we're looking for payback now.

"The last three years have really been the most exciting on the farm that we've had. Just because of the promise of what's coming. I can't wait for the next 10 years to go by," Sandra said, with a laugh.

USDA Creates New Agency

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — There's a new kid on the block — and it's the Farm Service Agency (FSA).

It came into being recently when President Clinton signed into law a restructuring plan for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) that will improve the way USDA agencies do business in Lebanon County, said Esther Rauch, acting chairman of the Lebanon County FSA committee.

The FSA will administer commodity price and income support programs, farm ownership and operating loans and the federal crop insurance program. The new agency combines all or part of three agencies familiar to farmers — the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), and the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Other loans offered by the former FmHA will be assigned to a new rural development agency.

In addition, the FSA will offer conservation cost-share assistance under the Agricultural Conservation Program, as well as cost-sharing and land rental payments for the Conservation Reserve Program.

"We want producers to know that the reorganization did not eliminate any programs," Rauch said. "What will change are that these services soon will be available to producers on a 'one-stop' basis. the whole purpose of the new FSA is to be able to provide better, more efficient service and to make it easier for farmers to use our programs."

"The agencies are merging at headquarters first," Rauch said. "The combination of staffs and functions at the county level will come in time. In the meantime, farmers can receive service as usual at their county offices."

In Pennsylvania most USDA offices are located with others in the same county. Some, cross-sharing of equipment and space already occurs. However, Rauch said, more sharing of data will occur between staffs in these offices.

At the local level, farmer-elected committee members will continue to oversee farm program administration and will take on additional duties in overseeing other FSA programs.

National DHIA Rules To Change

The legal issues waste resources which should be helping all members get affordable services.

The effect wanted for the DHIA segment of the dairy industry is to minimize its role as referee between other segments of the dairy cattle industry.

In more general terms, the concept would hold that if a man buys a Holstein with a DHIA record of high production, and the seller used unreported artificial or illegal means to create that record, then DHIA shouldn't be held liable for that deceit, nor for the buyer's failure to use good sense in making a purchase.

Another goal of changing rules would be to allow more producer involvement in testing, so that there could be a more affordable range of services available to members.

More and more, according to industry experts, producers want testing procedures and costs that reflect herd management needs, not just those designed to establish high production of a cow or herd for genetic-market attention.

The reason for all of this, according to Dukas, is not only the historically high costs associated with DHIAs serving as "judge and jury," but because of significant changes within the dairy production industry that, essentially, make it difficult and more costly to make sure everyone is acting ethically.

The bottom line is that those who want to use DHIA information for purposes other than herd management — such as for tracking production of sire daughters — will be able to accept a wider variety of testing programs while being able to examine more closely the conditions under which data were recorded."

Dukas said that, if everything can come together properly, the new rules would, "Allow the user to have more information to understand what is going on at a farm, rather than for us to make that judgement."

The current use of recombinant bovine somatotropin, which is not necessarily reported, but has a significant impact on dairy production, and other methods for increasing milk production, which may or may not be illegal, as well as variations in cow identification procedures, and a broad spectrum of dietary management, all combine to thwart the efforts of a DHIA to collect and report accurate, comparable data.

The savings to dairy producer members of DHIAs could be significant, for these and other reasons.

"Today, if on a young sire program, you need to be on an official (DHIA) program," Dukas said. This means that a technician would have to supervise testing, and 12 tests per year are required. "Under the concept (for changing rules), we will identify how many observations were supervised. With further research, the A.I. industry may find that you don't need 12 tests to prove sires.

"With that in mind, you can see how many new forms of testing (would be possible), where the farmer could take the tests on unsupervised days for his own records, and, if the only need for off-farm use (of the supervised tests) would be for (eligibility in) a young sire program, (the farmer) may be able to test with a technician fewer times."

Fewer supervised tests means less cost to the farmer.

While this may mean that an individual farmer may see a technician less often, it doesn't necessarily mean that the need for technicians will diminish.

"With this kind (of testing program), technicians will have different schedules than today, but less work? I don't see that happening," Dukas said.

"There may be many herds that may want to participate that aren't herd members today," he said.

Despite the recent spate of competition between individual DHIAs throughout the country, there are basically two types of current tests — those that are official, and require strong technician supervision, or those that are unofficial and do not require such technician supervision.

Those programs requiring more services of a technician are naturally higher in cost to the producer, and a reason why some producers — who could otherwise use the breeding information, the somatic cell count information, the protein and fat composition monitoring for nutrition work and herd health — don't bother joining a DHIA, reserving that cash flow for other aspects of the farm or family.

And, years ago, some DHIAs didn't reduce costs significantly for technician-limited programs (such as AM/PM), but in reality overcharged in order to support the higher-costing classic program of having a technician supervise testing at two milkings on the same day.

Now, with more accurate formulas for converting production values of morning and evening milkings, better accuracy in traditional testing devices and new devices, laptop computers in the barn, home computers and direct computer links to records processing centers, etc., a change in rules may make it more feasible for all herds to use some offerings from DHIAs.

As far as the need for technicians, Dukas said he can't imagine that it would diminish with new rules changes.

Technicians across the nation must be competent with a laptop computer, they must be able to perform and understand more than ever. That, along with the fact that research has shown that a technician can make a better living with a full schedule of limited-supervised tests as opposed to the traditional tests, and the anticipated increase in dairy herd participation that should accompany less-costly and less-involved testing options, he said he doesn't expect any significant job losses.

But, at the same time, Dukas said that the objective of National DHIA is not to create jobs, but to provide services to members at the lowest cost possible.

"Our mission is really to serve members; not maintain labs, not to maintain status quo," he said.

The change in rules is almost certain to come, he said. Changes in records standards formats have already been implemented at processing centers across the nation, Dukas said, although the farmer doesn't see it yet.

He also said that the USDA AIPL, which does the genetic evaluations for the national herd, is currently programming to accommodate the DHIA changes.

As for the rest of the industry, Dukas said, "We predict the industry will start to make the decisions on how they use records in 1995."

Internationally, the rules changes apparently will not cause a problem, Dukas said.

Expectations from some are that Thursday's Senate approval of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) will herald a less-fettered world-wide marketplace. With respect to that, the impact of changing rules governing data collection for comparison of animal performance has been considered by National DHIA.

According to Dukas, the concept of changing rules in the United States has already been presented during an international DHIA meeting, Dukas said, adding that it was well received. In fact, he said that the head of INTERBULL, the international center of genetic conversions located in Sweden, had said that just this sort of change should come about in the United States.

As far as working out the details, the National DHIA Leaders Conference (set for mid-January in Orlando, Fla.) is set to deal with the rules issues.

From there, revised rules proposals, and also a revised foundation for enforcement, are to go before DHIA delegates in late March during the 1995 National Convention and Trade Show, in Burlington, Vt.

Company Launches FFA Fundraiser

GASTONIA, N.C. — For the ninth year in a row, WIX Filters is helping local FFA chapters nationwide raise funds through a box top fund raiser, paying 25 cents for every WIX Filters box top turned in between Jan. 1, 1995 and April 15, 1995.

"Since this program began nine years ago, WIX Filters has contributed more than $250,000 to FFA chapters," said Bruce Johnston, WIX Filters marketing manager. "It's our way of supporting the important work of FFA chapters all across the U.S."

In addition to the 25 cents paid for every WIX Filters box top, the company is also offering four incentive bonuses of $1,000 each to the chapters with the highest number of box tops redeemed per member and a $1,000 bonus to the chapter with the greatest percentage increase from last year.

WIX Filters also offers four National FFA College scholarships to FFA members pursuing degrees in agricultural mechanics, and WIX is a sponsor of the National FFA Foundation.

"During the past year, 221 chapters participated, redeeming more than 197,000 box tops," Johnston said. "Those box tops represented $50,000 in funds to the various chapters."

Professional auto parts stores carrying WIX Filters are also participating in the program by serving as official FFA Box Top Collection Centers.

Raleigh DRPC Reports Turnaround Time Milestone

RALEIGH, N.C. — The DHI service affiliates served by DRPC Raleigh reached a new milestone in October 1994 with an average turnaround time (date of test through date mailed from DRPC) of 3.0 days. Turnaround time averaged 2.8 days for herd owners whose information was input directly into a microcomputer and teleprocessed to DRPC Raleigh (electronic input). Statistics for October for the past few years and for 10 years ago are:

Year	Turnaround	Enrollment (cows)
1994	3.0	927,876
1993	3.7	920,209
1992	4.1	916,146
1991	4.6	864,965
1990	5.0	821,423
1984	7.0	701,481

Turnaround has been reduced by two days in the past four years and by four days in the last ten years. These major improvements in turnaround are due in large measure to the almost complete conversion to electronic input (93%) and to the complete conversion to laser printing. This new milestone is the result of the cooperative efforts of many people:

DHI Technicians uploading data the same day herds are tested to allow the herd to pass DRPC edits before lab results are received.

Laboratory personnel uploading sample results soon after analysis to maximize the number of herds in the first DRPC processing run at 12:15 P.M.

Close cooperation amongst DRPC personnel to meet deadlines for each processing run.

Ken Butcher, Director of DRPC Raleigh is confident that the three day regional average for turnaround time can be reduced even further. "Since five DHI service affiliates had turnaround times in October of less than 2.5 days, it is evident that we can continue to improve." DRPC Raleigh serves a diverse dairy region with a cooperative membership of 16 DHI service affiliates that includes herds in 25 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Chester County Dairy Day

Start the new year off right with a top line dairy meeting at East Brandywine Fire Hall, Guthriesville, on Wednesday, Jan. 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dairy Day in Chester County features excellent speakers on timely topics along with a good dinner for $5 and exhibits by agri-businesses.

In the morning, Dr. Brian Perkins, an independent dairy nutrition and management consultant from New England, will discuss using commodities in a feeding program.

He will give a second talk after dinner on managing the dairy farm for maximum profit. Dr. Perkins is a practical consultant and a very good communicator.

Dr. "Jud" Heinrichs, Penn State dairy nutritionist, will also have two segments on the program — dry cow management, the key to the next lactation, and keeping yearling heifers healthy and growing. Dr. Robert Graves, Penn State agricultural engineer, will focus on cow comfort in Pennsylvania stall barns.

For reservations, send in the form that you receive in the December issue of Chester County's Dairy Milk Lines Newsletter, or call the Extension office at (610) 696-3500.

Chemsweep

Farmers in Chester County have a one-time opportunity to dispose of outdated, cancelled, damaged, or unneeded pesticides in 1995.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) has targeted Chester County for the Chemsweep program this coming year, but, before Dec. 31, 1994, farmers must fill out an inventory sheet that was mailed in October.

The best part of this program is that it is FREE, funded by registration fees collected from chemical companies.

The purpose of the program is to legally and safely remove certain pesticides from farms before they cause environmental problems. A PDA official will visit your farm to verify your submitted inventory list and to sample any unknown products.

There will be no effort made to censor your storage system. Their only aim is to remove the pesticides from your farm no matter what condition they are in. The pesticides will be picked up directly from your farm at a later date.

Do not mix or transport pesticides. This only complicates the procedure.

If you need more information or forms, contact the Chester County Cooperative Extension office at (610) 696-3500, or call the PDA Regional VII office at (610) 489-1003.

Dairy Map

The Dairy Management and Profitability (Dairy MAP) program will be expanded in 1995 with the joint cooperation of Penn State Cooperative Extension, PA Farm Bureau, Farm Credit, and Pa. Holstein Association. Also, other members of the agribusiness community will promote the program as financial sponsors, facilitators, and/or the encouragement of participants.

This two-day workshop has already been completed by 35 dairy farmers in Chester County.

The goal of the program is to teach dairy farmers business management principles that they can apply to their farming operation to increase profitability. It is an interactive, small group workshop (20 per workshop) attended by the farm's management team — husband & wife, father & son, brothers, etc. See the December dairy newsletter for more details, or call Alan Strock or Walt Wurster at the Extension office.

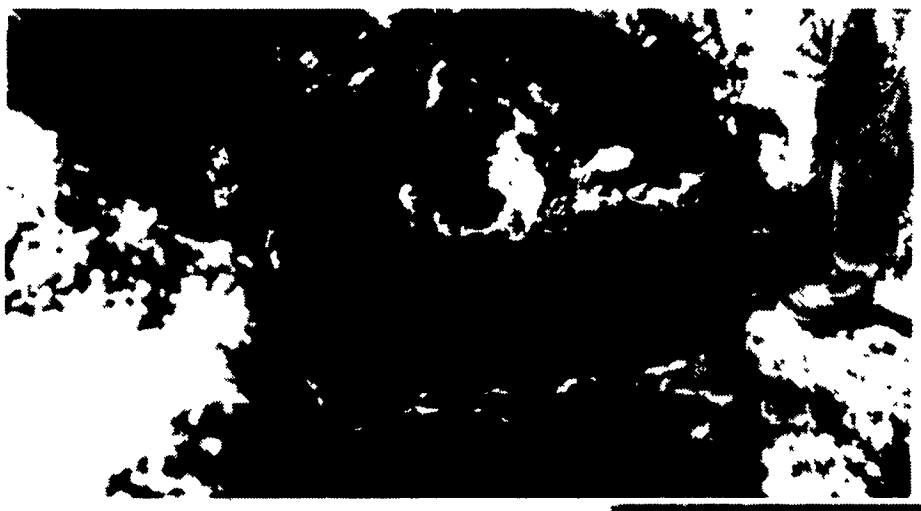
There Are Solutions To Sinkhole Problems

The following illustrates how a sinkhole was repaired in Cumberland County.



1). In the first of a series of photos of a sinkhole repair in Cumberland County, first the six-foot deep hole is widened and cleaned using a backhoe to expose the bedrock and cavity.

2) Next, the sinkhole is filled with large field-type stones, some measuring up to 1½ feet in diameter.

3) The sinkhole is then filled with smaller, 2B stones to a depth of two feet.

4) After the 2B stone is laid, a six-inch layer of sand is placed on top.

5) On top of the sand filter is placed a special fiberglass filter fabric. This helps prevent the fine-grained soil from entering into the coarse material below and adds stability over the area.

6) As a last step, about two feet of clay soil is filled in and compacted on top. In this case, the site will be used for a manure pond, so a concrete pad is added as a final step.

There Are Solutions To Sinkhole Problems

Last of a series

Editor's Note: In the first part of the series last week, Lancaster Farming interviewed those who experienced difficulties in dealing with sinkholes. Part two looks at some of the alternatives farmers have in dealing with sinkholes, and introduces a project that can help educate others about how to handle the problem.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "By repairing a sinkhole, you're not only taking care of a physical hazard, but you're also cleaning out a dump," said Bruce Benton, a geologist with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS — formerly the Soil Conservation Service, or SCS).

What many farmers may not realize, according to Benton, is that sinkholes can be a direct conduit to a water supply. So whatever you throw in a sinkhole will show up in your water supply.

Soon to be released will be the results of a survey, conducted by the Lancaster County Conservation District with the help of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, on pesticide use in the Pequea-Mill Creek Watershed. One of the conclusions: farmers believe that once a sinkhole is simply covered up, there are no longer any problems.

In the survey, 76 percent of those who responded reported no sinkholes, and eight percent reported between 1-3 sinkholes. Sixteen percent stated they had "none presently" or that they occurred only "occasionally." According to the report, the perception was that once a sinkhole was filled with stones and/or covered over with soil, it no longer existed.

The report indicated the following: "This shows that 16 percent probably do not understand that these sinkholes (even when covered over) pose a potential threat of direct conveyance of pollutants to groundwater if the area receives nutrient or pesticide applications. This 'out of sight, out of mind' thinking should be addresssed in any educational program."

Farmers remain afraid to talk about sinkhole problems. They fear government intervention and costly repairs, or, in the least, investigation by an agency such as DER and possible subsequent fines. So while many remain hush-hush about the problems, sinkholes remain to pollute substantial sources of groundwater in the Chesapeake Bay area.

But for now, farmers can solve the problem and not worry about the government imposing fines or restrictions on their practices.

And repairing them costs money.

However, under a new Pequea-Mill Creek Project initiative, Section 319 Nonpoint Source Funding, drafted in August and approved in early November this year, farmers in the Pequea-Mill Creek Project area in Lancaster County can repair the sinkholes free of cost.

Under the plan, there is money to repair four or five sinkholes in the project area.

One of the objectives of the initiative was to identify four or five sinkholes in the watershed area (which stretches from the Susquehanna River into the eastern and southeastern sections of Lancaster County) that have been used as dump sites. For no charge, the project, together with the help of the state NRCS and the Lancaster County Conservation District, will assess, design, and implement a complete sinkhole cleanup and repair on a cooperating farm.

"Ideally, we'd like to have demonstration sites in place to show people and explain what was done," said Jerry Martin, assistant on the Pequea-Mill Creek Project. Together with NRCS project leader Frank Lucas, the team wants to spend some of the funding (a portion of nearly $190,000) to clean up and repair sinkholes.

They need volunteer farms in the watershed.

Once completed, the sites would be used "for educational purposes to talk to farmers about what is involved in cleaning them up," said Martin.

The project assistant said the team wants to clean up sinkholes that have been used as dumps, but would consider large sinkholes that open out in the field.

According to Lucas, the team wants "to bring people to the site and show them what we did" during field day demonstrations and so forth.

In the process, the team hopes to learn more about exactly what should be done in identifying the size of the sinkhole, the extent of the sinkhole, and potential effects it has on groundwater contamination. They also plan to document the processes involved in repairing the site. Also, the project wants to examine ways to manage the sinkhole after it is repaired.

"We're all learning in the process," said Martin. "As long as the sinkholes are there, there is a risk to that farmer from an environmental standpoint that could come back to haunt him or her at some point down the road."

"Farmers are serious about keeping surface water out of the sinkholes," said Lucas. Many sinkholes, according to the NRCS project leader, open up in terraces as a result of heavy water accumulation and flow. Many farmers have to accept the fact that, even after a sinkhole is repaired, there are certain management strategies that have to be implemented near the sinkhole to ensure the safety of groundwater quality.

According to Travis Martin, conservation technician with the Lancaster County Conservation District, the district can assess the situation and look at technical help to design a plan for the farm. He said the district's program is very similar to the NRCS program.

Because sinkhole repair is estimated on site and extent of damage, cost estimates will vary. As an example, to repair one such sinkhole in Lancaster County, according to NRCS records, it cost about $480 for materials.

For information on signing up with the Pequea-Mill Creek Project to have a sinkhole repaired, contact Gerald Martin, Pequea-Mill Creek Project, 311B Airport Dr., P.O. Box 211, Smoketown, PA 17576-0211, (717) 396-9423.

Said Martin, "If we can demonstrate that these things can be cleaned up and repaired, it will encourage more widespread cleanup."

"Ideally, we'd like to have demonstration sites in place to show people and explain what was done," said Gerald Martin, assistant on the Pequea-Mill Creek Project, right. Together with NRCS project leader Frank Lucas, the team wants to spend some of the funding (a portion of nearly $190,000) to clean up and repair sinkholes. First, they need volunteer farms in the watershed.

Beware Of Sinkhole Dangers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

PALMYRA (Lebanon Co.) — One night, a man in this Lebanon County community heard strange noises coming from somewhere downstairs in his house. Luckily for him, before entering the basement, he turned on the lights.

What he found was that a 42-foot deep sinkhole had opened up in his basement, caving in the basement floor, taking with it the oil tank for his heating system, his hot water heater, and other items.

Sinkholes can literally happen anywhere, warns a certified professional geologist. And everybody should remember that sinkholes are "very unpredictable, very difficult to understand, and can kill you," said Ed Pinero, director of environmental science services at Rettew Associates, Inc., in Lancaster.

Pinero spoke on Wednesday afternoon as a guest of the weekly meeting of the Mount Joy Rotary Club at The Gathering Place in Mount Joy. He spoke about methods used to identify and treat sinkholes and his experiences with treating sinkholes on commercial properties.

"Sinkholes are incredibly dangerous," he said. He said that a sinkhole opened up on a main street in Palmyra not too long ago. When a contractor went to measure how deep it was, the tape measure stretched down 85 feet, before the tape simply ran out.

"We have sinkhole-prone topography," said Pinero. Sinkholes will form in nearly any location on limestone bedrock. "There is no way you can stop it, avoid it, or work your way around it. That's just the way it is."

Sinkholes can vary by type and size.

The most prevalent type of sinkholes are the "soil-piping sink," formed when water, carrying soil particles, washes down to bedrock, eroding away at the topsoil. The soil thins and collapses, leaving a gaping whole, which can serve as a direct conduit for surface water contaminants into the groundwater.

Penn State's Department of Agriculture Engineering has prepared the Chesapeake Bay Fact Sheet #5, which alerts potential sinkhole "owners" about what to do to protect water quality. The following steps are important:

- Don't use sinkholes as dumping sites. Sinkholes may seem like ideal locations to dump trash, but they're not. The water from precipitation and drainage that flows through trash-filled sinkholes carries contaminants directly into groundwater.
- Never dump rinse water from sprayer tanks or any other hazardious liquids into sinkholes. These liquids will reach groundwater easily. Never dump any hazardous materials, including pesticide containers, into a sinkhole.
- Avoid using sinkholes as outlets for drainage tiles. This water may contain contaminants, such as pesticides and nitrate, that have leached from the soil.

Steps that should be taken are the following:

- If the sinkhole contains trash, clean it out. This will stop any further groundwater contamination.
- Keep sinkholes and the area immediately around them vegetated with trees, shrubs, and grasses. This buffer of vegetation will help stabilize the area, filter contaminated runoff, and provide wildlife habitat.

Remember, sinkholes need to be treated with care. A video showing sinkhole repair from Clinton County is available from many conservation district offices. Call them and request to borrow a copy. Contact your local extension office or conservation district for more information about how to handle sinkholes.

Farmers in the Pequea-Mill Creek Project area who want to sign up under a special educational program and have sinkholes repaired free of charge should contact Gerald Martin, Pequea-Mill Creek Project, 311B Airport Dr., P.O. Box 211, Smoketown, PA 17576-0211, (717) 396-9423.

Ed Pinero, director of environmental science services for Rettew Associates, Lancaster, center, spoke about the dangers of sinkholes at a meeting this week of the Mount Joy Rotary Club. From left, Todd Smeigh, president of the Rotary, who presented a gift to Pinero, and at right, Ed Kaseab, president-elect.

One Million Registered

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The Ayrshire Breeders Association has announced that it has registered its one-millionth animal.

According to a recent news release, a June calf registered Nov. 11 became the 1,000,000 Ayrshire to be entered in the books of the national dairy cattle breed registry association.

Covey-Farms Magnet Rori, owned by Stanley Covey, of Locust Grove, Okla., is a home-bred animal out of Covey-Farms Ronnie (number 982054) and Covey-Farms Olympic Magnet (number 145356).

The achievement is a milepost for the 124-year-old association, according to Rob Schrull, general manager.

"This marks another of the positive steps that the Ayrshire Association continues to make. We began registering cattle in 1875, and registration has increased the profitability of countless herds since then."

MMI To Hold Annual Meeting

STRONGSVILLE, Ohio — Milk Marketing's strong operating results will be the focus of the Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI) annual meeting of delegates on Dec. 14. The meeting, held at the Fawcett Center, Columbus, Ohio, begins at 10 a.m.

"Milk Marketing marketed and processed 4.75 billion pounds of milk in fiscal year '94, up 25 million pounds from fiscal year '93," said Don Schriver, MMI's CEO and executive vice president. "Net revenues were $725 million, up over $36 million from the previous year."

Utilizing the theme "Building Blocks of Value," Don Schriver and Chairman of the Board, Herman Brubaker, are to report to the delegates on MMI's strategies to prepare for the future.

Brubaker will speak on the broad issues facing the dairy industry and how MMI is preparing for the realities in the marketplace with GATT, the 1995 Farm Bill, and moving farmers closer to the consumer through promotional issues.

Schriver will present MMI's state-of-the-union address and spell out what steps MMI is taking to reposition members for the new environment. He will explain how the cooperative is adding value to the benefits, operations and services MMI offers to members and customers.

Seminars

Delegates will be offered a choice of three seminars.

"Milk Components: Pieces Parts that Sell" will inform members how milk is broken down into its components. The industrial uses of milk components and who uses them will be answered in this 30-minute session.

"Competitive Positioning—Dairy's Future" is designed to make members aware of the changing competitive dairy environment. Session focuses on economic and market realities facing dairy farmers in the future.

"Milk Makes a Splash" explores new promotions in marketing milk and cheese. How Dairy Management Inc. (DMI) impacts the sale of milk and cheese with the dairy promotion checkoff will be answered in this seminar.

Trade Show

The annual meeting will also feature displays of MMI manufacturing operations, member services departments, and testing labs. Members can bring in milk samples to be tested. Dairy products made by MMI manufacturing operations and foods containing MMI products will also be available for delegate taste testing.

Meeting time

Registration and communication fair displays open at 9 a.m. The annual meeting begins at 10 a.m. The Fawcett Center for Tomorrow is located just north of the Ohio State Stadium, 2400 Olentangy River Road, Columbus, Ohio.

MMI is the region's largest dairy producer-owned cooperative and the 73rd largest U.S. food company. Headquartered in Strongsville, Ohio, MMI is owned by 5,700 dairy farm families in an eight state Midwestern area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia.

Ayrshires Set Records

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Several Ayrshire-breed, age-class production records have been broken recently, according to a news release from the Ayrshire Breeders Association, headquartered in Brattleboro, Vt.

In October, Mini-Ayr Fay Mick Fayre set a record for the the 10-year-old and older age class with a 305-day lactation production of 35,090 pounds of milk, 1,149 pounds of fat, and 1,108 pounds of protein.

According to Julie Nichols, Dairy Herd Improvement Records coordinator for ABA, "This is the second time this year that the record for this 10-years-and-over class has been broken. And it's the fourth time this year Ayrshire cattle have established new class records.

In the news release, Nichols stated that in June this year, Ardrossan C. Boy Fine Vue had set the previous 10-year-old and older record with a 305-day production of 26,120 pounds of milk with 1,142 pounds of fat and 848 pounds of protein.

Another record breaker this year, in the senior 3-year-old age class, was Ardrossan Trident Eyes, with a 305-day record with 29,020 pounds of milk, 1,170 pounds of fat, and 1,014 pounds of protein.

In the junior 3-year-old class, Maple-Dell Sailor's Jetlag set an age-class production record of 27,789 pounds of milk, 1,164 pounds of fat, and 874 pounds of protein.

According to Jim McConnel, president of the ABA, the series of production records being broken this year is an indication that the breed is making strong genetic progress.

"I think this shows that we are not just talking about the Ayrshire breed 'bold changes' in a general sense. These new national class leaders are proof that all the Ayrshire breeders are committed towards improving the Ayrshire breed."

Hellerick Takes Position With Landscape Firm

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Bruce Hellerick, who served as horticulture agent for the Lancaster County Extension Service for nearly seven years, is leaving Extension at the end of the month.

Since joining Extension in March 1988, Hellerick, who will be named regional horticulture specialist for The Brickman Group, Ltd., in Langhorne, has been instrumental in guiding a wide variety of county extension programs and conferences. Included in his accomplishments are the professional landscape management program, the Master Gardener program, the home horticultural symposium, vegetable and flower trials throughout the county, the Idea Garden at the Farm and Home Center, and his work with the vegetable growers at the Leola Produce Auction. Hellerick also chaired an irrigation conference after the drought of 1988 at the Farm and Home Center.

In addition, Hellerick wrote a weekly column, "What's Growing On" for the Lancaster New Era and hosted a semimonthly program on gardening for WGAL-TV.

In his new position, Hellerick, who has a bachelor's degree in horticulture from Delaware Valley College and a master's in public administration from Penn State, will be responsible for landscape site analysis for large commercial properties in a five-state region for The Brickman Group.

Hellerick was also involved in the horticulture events at the state Farm Show. Del Voight, Lebanon County agent, will assume those responsibilities for the 1995 Farm Show.

Penn State Extension has organized a search committee to choose a replacement for Hellerick.

Hellerick, who was honored last year by the National Association of County Agriculture Agents for his work with the professional landscape management program, said he will stay in touch with the "friendly people of Lancaster County" in his new line of work.

Bruce Hellerick, Lancaster County horticulture agent, will be leaving Penn State Extension at the end of the month to work with a landscape firm in Langhorne.

Corn Fodder Shocks Form Farm Scenes Around Ephrata

At the corner of Long Lane Road and Martindale Road.

Down and up Long Lane Road southeast of Ephrata beyond Quarry Road.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — A time to relax on the farm just after Thanksgiving with anticipation of Christmas gives you a good feeling of contentment and spiritual renewal. The excellent growing season helped the land to give bumper crops. And good fall weather helped with harvesting so that only a few corn fodder shocks still dot the fields as reminders of the past year's activities.

For persons with a subjective bent and a pictorial eye for farming, the low, early winter, south afternoon sun that casts long dark shadows across the landscape, provides incentive to grab a camera and spend a few moments alone with God and nature drinking in the quietness of the countryside.

A more objective view of the farm situation comes from the latest production reports. Across the U.S., corn for grain production is forecast at a record high 10 billion bushels, up 58 percent above the 1993 crop. Soybean production is also forecast at a record high 2.52 billion bushels, 35 percent above last year. While many farmers needed the bumper crop to offset the damage from droughts and floods of the 1993 growing season, the glut of grain has depressed prices and provided feed to expand beef and pork production to the point where meat prices are also low.

While the business of farming is tough, scenes of farming make the heart soft in those who love this business. Photos by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Art On The Cutting Edge

When a client asked for an Amish scene, Linda Moore found a photo in Lancaster Farming that she reproduced on this saw blade.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

RIDGELY, MD. — As in many homes, the Moore home is a place where husband and wife each grab for the Lancaster Farming newspaper every Saturday.

Bill's highlight is to read the paper in his favorite chair after a long day working on the couple's 85-acre farm with its 110,000 broiler operation.

Linda searches the paper for inspiration — not so much in the feature stories but in the pictures.

She's an artist. She paints farm scenes and wildlife on sawblades.

Because the Moores live on the Eastern Shore, wildlife is prolific. Most of Linda's paintings feature geese, ducks, and water fowl.

But some customers request Pennsylvania Dutch and Amish scenes. Linda finds those scenes in photos in Lancaster Farming. She uses them to paint pictures on all sizes of saw blades.

"I've been dabbling in painting since I was a child. I have no formal training. I look at something or paint from pictures," Linda said.

In addition to choosing her own subjects, Linda also paints scenes by request. She especially enjoys painting winter and farm scenes.

Linda sells her work privately. She does not exhibit her work at craft or art shows.

At the urging of a friend, she entered one of her pictorial saws in a contest and received a prize. She also entered a pictorial saw in the Maryland Holstein Association's fundraiser, where the top bid for the item was $325.

In addition to operating their grain and chicken farm, both spouses work full time for the local cooperative electric company. Linda helps with the chickens in mornings.

The Moores have four adult children. Linda said that she doesn't have as much time to paint as she previously did since time spent with the couple's granddaughter has surpassed her love for painting.

For more information, the Moores may be contacted at 12450 Ridgely Road, Ridgely, MD 21660 or call (410) 634-1136.

Eastern Shore wildlife and winter farm scenes are popular subjects for Linda's artistic work.

Honey Queen Crowned At Apiary Celebration

1994 Pennsylvania Honey Queen Melissa Swartz crowns 1995 PA Honey Queen Jona Hoover of Holtwood, Lancaster County.

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Just as the queen bee is vital to the survival of the hive, the Pennsylvania Honey Queen plays a vital role in the organization she represents. The Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association (PSBA) met Saturday, November 12, for their fall/winter meeting at the Country Cupboard in Lewisburg. Members attended a variety of seminars and were introduced to their Honey Queen. The Pennsylvania Beekeepers Association formed in 1904 and is celebrating 90 years of promoting the apiary industry.

1995 Pennsylvania Honey Queen Jona Hoover accepted the Honey Queen crown and sash from 1994 Honey Queen Melissa Swartz of Shoemakersville. Hoover, 18, is the daughter of Scott and Sandy Hoover of Holtwood, Lancaster County. She is the oldest of six children and is a graduate of Penn Manor High School. Hoover said she became interested in honey when her father brought a honeycomb home for breakfast. They spread it on their toast and Hoover has been a fan of honey ever since.

After the evening buffet, Honey Queen chairperson Rebecca Fisher Gerhart said she attempted to reach all past honey queens to invite them to the banquet. Letters from all over the U.S. came from those who could not attend.

Being stopped for speeding seemed to be a recurring theme from past queens as they attempted to reach their speaking engagements on time. Said one queen in her letter, "The policeman said, I've never met a queen before — and let me go without a fine."

Six honey queens and princesses did attend and took to the microphone to recount their appreciation for the experience. Said Robin Staudenmeier, "I've always been an outgoing person. Being Honey Queen taught me the time management and organizational skills I needed."

In an auction to benefit the Honey Queen program, more than 20 items of apiary interest were auctioned off by Merle Fisher of Granville, Mifflin County. Aprons, honey pots, beeswax candle centerpieces, and eight bears filled with raspberry flavored honey were some of the items brought up for bid. Proceeds from the auction will help send 1994 Honey Queen Melissa Swartz to the national Honey Queen contest in January.

The Beekeepers Association is the sole supporter of the queen and princess program. In 1950, the Association obtained permission to promote their honey products at the Farm Show in Harrisburg. They began the Honey Queen and Princess program two years later.

Earlier in the day, PSBA president Sandy Fisher welcomed attendees. Jim Frazier from the Department of Entomology at Penn State spoke about foraging, pollinating, and harvesting. Greg Kirkham of Old Guard Insurance Group spoke on liability issues and insurance needs. A business meeting was held after lunch. Maryann Frazier from Penn State's Entomology Department spoke on the pollination of cucumbers, and Audrey Snyder and Julie Freeman covered honey cookery.

The afternoon panel discussion addressed the problems of diseases and mites. Serving on the panel were apiary inspectors from four states including James Steinhauer from Pennsylvania, Grant Stiles from New Jersey, Bob Wellemeyer from Virginia, and I. Barton Smith from Maryland.

Officers for the PSBA are president Sandy Fisher, vice president Tom Owczarzak, and secretary/treasurer Yvonne Crimbring. The Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association fall/winter meeting for next year will be held at the Country Cupboard in Lewisburg on November 17 and 18.

Carriage House Features Floral Arrangements In Antique Containers

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Rose and Fred Dillner have been deeply involved in agriculture, and now they have moved that involvement into their own back Yard with the opening of the Carriage House.

It's the place to go if you are a fan of dried flowers, herbs, and pretty arrangements featuring the two.

The idea for the Carriage House arose after the two retired.

Fred is best known in the local farming community for his years as an agriculture instructor and head of the Young Farmer program for the Shippensburg School District.

He and Rose also spent many years running the local farmers market.

With those jobs behind them, Rose suggested one day, "Why don't we turn our vegetable garden into a flower garden for dried flowers?"

So, Rose said, they grew an acre of flowers that they felt would be good for drying. Some of the Plants were Planted as seeds and others as seedlings.

Those plants included sunflowers, statice and cockscomb. Herbs that were suitable for drying were planted also.

She and Fred said that they learned a lot during their first year as flower growers.

"It takes a lot of work cutting the flowers and getting them ready for drying. One of the things we discovered is that to Preserve the color they need to be dried in high heat in a short amount of time," Rose said.

The loft of the Carriage House, which the couple built last year, seems to be the perfect spot for that.

Along with the perfect building for drying them, the flowers are grown in a perfect setting on the Dillners' farm, which was built in 1754 when Shippensburg was on the colonial frontier.

For the Dillners the busy season doesn't end with the growing season.

Once the flowers and herbs are dried, Rose sets busy making many types of arrangements such as wreaths and swags in all kinds of containers. She has a great time shopping for some of the accessories that go with the home-grown materials.

"I try to get really interesting ribbon that you would see on the arrangements from the florist shops," she said.

The containers she uses are unique also. Many of the antique containers have come from as far away as Massachusetts and Ohio, although many of them are of local origin.

The Dillners have made a point of traveling to some very unique antique fairs in other states to get the containers.

The Dillners are planning to make their new enterprise no more than a part-time occupation because they want to leave plenty of time to enjoy their retirement.

Rose said she and Fred Plan to have only seasonal openings at the Carriage House so they can pursue their other interests, including going to antique fairs.

One of those openings ends at 6 p.m. today (December 3). Other openings are scheduled for 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. April 7 and 8 and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. July 7 and 8.

The Carriage House is located at Blythstead, the Dillners' home, at 217 Means Hollow Road just outside of Shippensburg.

Rose Dillner displays some of her arrangements in unique antique containers.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Save for the half-hour-long, Thanksgiving-eve mini-blizzard that roared through last week, Fall has blessed us with exceptionally fine weather.

Er, make that fowl weather. The brisk mornings and sun-splashed afternoons have stirred our poultry residents to take to the back yard and surrounding fields with renewed vigor, much like kids enjoying an extra long recess.

They start up early, the roosters vying to outdo one another in crowing to greet the lovely pink, orange, and purple sunrises. As day breaks, a couple of chickens already have been rooting in the lawn under the bird feeder, scratching for sunflower seed breakfasts. Even the scolding squirrels, busy stuffing their mouths full of fallen maple leaves to haul high into the trees for nest insulation, fail to reroute the roosters off their usual path.

And this stretch of fowl weather has apparently stirred what might be a bit of unseasonable, uh, fowl play.

First alert was the high-pitched, insistent peeping I heard at the far corner of the old bank barn one morning last week. Chicks? Now? It's almost winter.

Sure enough, cowering in the old hay rack was a teeny black ball of fluff, screeching its miniscule lungs out. That such a tiny being can squawk so loud always amazes me. And overhead, on a deep window sill in the old stone foundation built into the bank, a small black hen had her wings spread wide, verbally threatening me in a very fowl-mouthed manner.

"Just cool it," I grumbled back at her, swooping the two-inch-high chick from the floor and depositing it on the ledge in her direction, then retreating before she attacked my head. "Watch your kid better."

But there were several more eggs there, and I knew the feisty little hen had been torn between guarding the rest of the probably-hatching eggs and the precocious stray which had already taken the plunge off the side of the wall. No wonder she was in such a fowl mood.

This little black hen is one of my favorites from among the poultry eggs-plosion we've seen this year. Last spring, our chicken flock had just about fowled out, down to only two roosters and one little tan-colored hen. Her first nest of hatchlings she failed to protect from the barn cats. With the second and third hatches, she'd gotten very protective, leaving us with a sudden weath of noisy, squabbling young roosters and about a half dozen dainty hens. The jet-black one was the prettiest..

Next morning, the inexperienced little hen still had only the tiny, charcoal-colored chick. Maybe that was all she had hatched; but, veteran barncat, Pepper, lurking ominously nearby, led me to suspect otherwise.

Not that we need any more roosters — or hens, for that matter. They chase each other around the yard, scratch the mulch off the flower beds, screech at you in the haymow when you climb up to thrown down bales, and raise a noisy ruckus when the lights go on for after-dark heifer feeding.

But they're just fun to watch and the roosters are the most gorgeous colors: one old tan colored one with snappy-looking polka dots on his breast feathers, several in shades of orange and rust feathers that absolutely glow in the sunlight, and two, one from both early and late hatches, that The Farmer aptly describes as looking like ringneck pheasants.

Sooner or later, their fussing and fuming at me day after day will wear thin and then all but the very prettiest (selective breeding here) of the roosters will take a short trip.

The haymow will be emptier - and quieter.

And the freezer will be all fowled up.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Featuring sounds of music boxes and carolers plus historical displays and aromas of yesteryear, the Lancaster Mennonite Historical Society will sponsor "An Old-Fashioned Christmas" for all ages at its headquarters, 2215 Millstream Road, Lancaster. PA 17602-1499, on Saturday, December 17, 7:00 p.m.

A multi-faceted educational experience, the event is designed to illustrate memorable religious and secular traditions of the past. Because of limited seating, registrants must purchase tickets in advance on a first-come, first-served basis at $3 per adult and $1 for children aged 12 and under (Phone: (717) 393-9745, Lola M. Lehman).

Scenarios from varied time periods will include, for example, "Christmas in the New World" by the Norman Stoltzfoos family of Leola; "Return of the Belsnickel," by Noah G. Good, Lancaster; "Holiday Time in the One-Room School," Mary Wenger Becker, Akron; and "O Tannenbaum," a slide-illustrated overview by Henry G. Benner of the Christmas tree tradition among some religious groups.

Other features include "What I Got for Christmas" by varied participants; reflections of significant religious traditions of Russian, Swiss-German, and Amish Mennonites; and a Christmas reading for children by Daniel L. Wenger, Lancaster.

David L. Sauder of Akron, Pennsylvania, will lead the group in Christmas songs, and selected singers will highlight the program with some German and English carols. The event will conclude with refreshments of the yuletide season plus fellowship and time to browse in the Society's book and gift shop.

Featured Recipe

Dates and walnuts are a winning combination that transform the ordinary into the extraordinary.

Dates are high in fiber and add much needed potassium, carbohydrates, and B-complex vitamins to your diet. Walnuts have no cholesterol and are low in saturated fat. A recent clinical study by Loma Linda University showed that substituting walnuts in place of saturated fats could help to lower cholesterol.

For a brochure including more than 35 lowfat, cholesterol-reducing recipes using walnuts, send a self-addressed , $1 stamped 9x12 envelope to Walnut Marketing Board, 545 Samsome St., San Francisco, CA 94111.

For more great-tasting recipes using California dates, contact California Dad Administrative Committee, Dept. DWROP, P.O. Box 1736, Indio, CA 92202 or call 1-800-223-8248.

Here is a recipe that is chewy, sweet, and candy-like. These are good with coffee or tea. They keep well, refrigerated in a tightly covered container.

NO-BAKE DATE AND WALNUT BARS

4-ounces chopped walnuts
2 cups finely chopped dates
3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup honey
2 cups coarsely crumbled shredded wheat
½ cup confectioner's sugar

Coat an 8-inch square baking pan lightly with nonstick cooking spray.

Combine the walnuts and dates in a food processor and process until blended and chopped. Add the cocoa, cinnamon, salt, and honey; mix to blend; then add the shredded wheat and process until completely mixed. Press the mixture evenly in the prepared pan then cover with plastic wrap and chill until cold and firm. With a thin, sharp knife, cut into 24 rectangular bars. Roll the bars in confectioner's sugar to coat evenly. Refrigerate in a tightly sealed container.

CRANAPPLE CRISP

3 tablespoons whole wheat flour
¼ cup light brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons frozen apple juice concentrate, thawed

To make the topping in a small bowl, combine oats, flour, sugar cinnamon, stir well, add juice concentrate, and mix until moist and crumbly. Set aside.

Fisher Family Receives Mifflin County's Farm Family Award

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — Mifflin Count's Farm City banquet was dubbed a huge success as more than 325 people from all walks of life gathered at the Belleville Mennonite School to see the Farm-City awards presented and to hear the president of Giant Foods, Allan Noddle, speak.

Emcee Frank Bonson first introduced representatives from various Pennsylvania commodity groups including the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the State Apple Producers Association, dairy promotions and dairy princesses, Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers, Pennsylvania Honey Producers, Pennsylvania Pork Council, and the Cattleman's Association.

Kiwanis president Judge Tim Searer presented farm family award to Dyson Fisher and sons Wade and Scott. The Dyson Fisher Bee Farm is a family owned hive and honey-packing business. Started by Dyson's father, Merle Fisher of Granville in 1935, the business has grown to include 4,000 boxes of bees used for pollination all over the east coast. The bees travel almost 75-80,000 miles each year, from Florida to Maine.

Dyson trucks his bees to Florida in the winter for citrus pollination. The bees return to Pennsylvania in the spring for cherries, apples, and other fruit. They travel to Lake Champlain for apples, to Maine for blueberries, and Massachusetts for cranberries.

Sons Wade and Scott, Through the Fisher Honey Company, process and package a line of bottled liquid honey for stores and bakeries. But their latest passion is honey sticks — small plastic straw-like tubes filled with flavored honey for snacking. Fisher's Famous Honey Stiks are filled with 99% pure honey and are heat-sealed at both ends.

ASCS Awards went to dairymen J. Elrose Glick and David C. Mitchell for 15 years of service as community committeemen. Michael Smoker was recognized for 10 years of service. Illa Snook received a plaque for her 29 years as Mifflin County's program assistant.

Mark Elsesser accepted the Business Family Award from Mifflin County Extension Director Dave Filson. Mark and his wife Deb own the Lewistown Paper Company. Purchased in 1988, the company distributes paper, janitorial supplies, and restaurant equipment within a 100 mile radius. They are in the process of expanding their business, which should create 25 new jobs for Mifflin County.

Featured speaker Allan Noddle told the crowd about Giant Food's success and the importance of watching and adapting to trends in this global economy. "Changes are impacting business everywhere," Noddle emphasized.

Dough-It-Yourself Christmas Decorations

(NAPS)—For family holiday fun, here's an easy recipe to make old-fashioned tree ornaments at home that everyone will treasure

First you need:
2 cups all-purpose flour
(not self-rising)
1 cup salt
1 cup water
food color, optional

Combine flour and salt in a large flat-bottomed bowl. Mix well. Form into a ball by mixing in a little water at a time. If you want colored ornaments, add food color to the dough. Be sure to knead 7-10 minutes until the dough has smooth, firm consistency. Add a little more water if necessary.

Now you're ready to make a bell, a star, a Christmas tree—or Santa. Just roll out the dough 1/4 inch thick. Cut ornament shapes out of the dough using cookie cutters. Make a small hole at the top of the ornament for thread to hang the finished product. Bake on a foil-covered cookie sheet at 325 degrees for about 30 minutes or until golden brown.

President Lincoln Returns To Marietta Holiday Home Tour

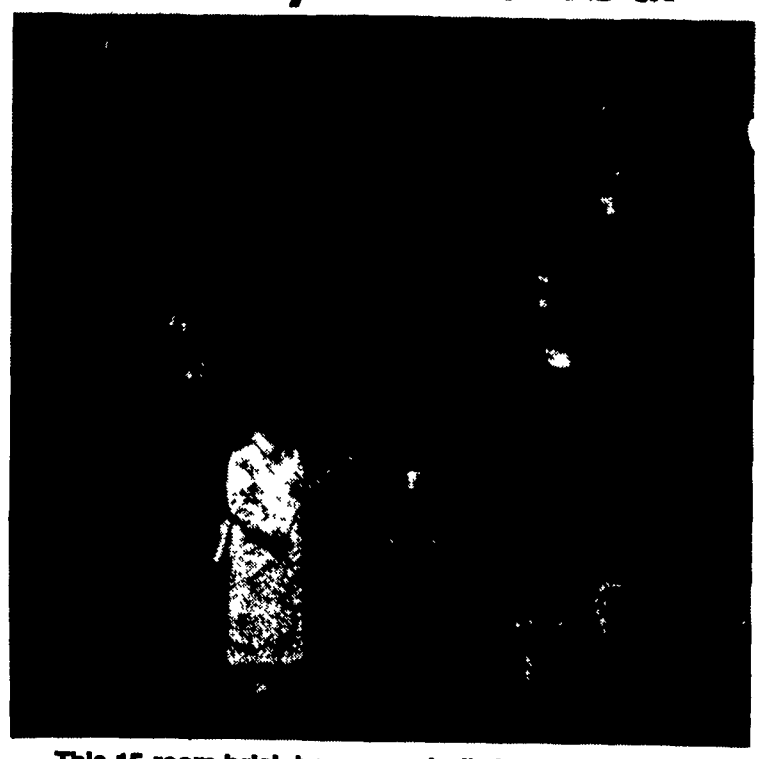
MARIETTA (Lancaster Co.) — President Lincoln as portrayed by James Getty, will greet visitors during Marietta's Special 30th Anniversary Candlelight Tour of Homes sponsored by Marietta Restoration Associates held on Sunday, December 4, from 11:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

The public is invited to join President Lincoln as he travels the streets of Marietta by horse-drawn carriage and visits its eight historic homes and seven public buildings open for the tour. Featuring a Civil War theme to highlight the town's rich history during this era, President Lincoln will be joined by Pennsylvania's Civil War Governor, Andrew G. Curtin, portrayed by a local re-enactor, David Klinepeter.

Visitors can journey into America's past to visit a re-created Civil War encampment, located at the Marietta Community House. Soldiers from the encampment will join the President's carriage, marching bands, and other costumed characters in a parade through town which ends with a stirring speech given near the Old Town Hall. This site also delights visitors with a Holiday Gift Shop, filled with unique gift and craft items. The dignitaries will later host a Victorian Tea for the tour attendees at the Presbyterian Church. A special display of old wedding and Christening gowns will also be located here.

The eight private homes on the tour include a large Federal brick home on the square with a newly renovated kitchen area and distinctive central stair; Riverview Tower, a three story stone home built by Marietta ironmaster in 1871 to replicate an Austrian Castle; the Waterford House, a 190-year-old two-story, stucco over brick home with four fireplaces that now serves as a Bed & Breakfast for local visitors; a grand riverfront home built when Marietta's Susquehanna River trade was booming; a Federal brick home with original hardware and woodwork, furnished with antiques and family heirlooms; and an interesting adaptation of a large stone barn turned into a unique family home. All homes will be specially decorated for the holidays and offer tour-goers their own glimpse of Marietta's colorful past. Costumed guides will greet visitors at events and answer questions while strolling carollers entertain with Christmas songs.

An Antiques Show and Sale, complete with antique furniture, fine glassware, jewelry, and linens is also included in the ticket price. Tickets are $7 in advance and $9 the day of the tour. All proceeds are used to fund continuing restoration projects in Marietta.



This 15-room brick home was built 200 years ago. Mick and Lori Kibler are previous winners in Marietta's home decorating contest. It is open for Marietta's 30th annual tour of homes.

one of my biggest fears: cooking. Every year I manage to get turkey grease on my blouse, even wearing an apron. And it never fails, the turkey grease leaves a ring even after washing. What is the best way to get a grease stain out?

A: You're not alone. Turkey grease and other meat juices are among the most reported holiday stains. First dampen the stain before washing. Then rub with a dual-enzyme detergent such as Double Power Wisk® and wash in hottest water temperature safe for the fabric. Make sure stain is completely removed before drying in the dryer or ironing.

For additional help combating holiday stains call 1-800-ASK-WISK, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. EST. Callers will receive expert advice on removing difficult stains and a free laundry guide that will be handy for additional holiday mishaps!

Q: Lambchops are one of my family's favorite winter dishes. I love cooking them but hate cleaning up afterward. They leave a broiler pan that is unsightful. Do you have any tips on the best way to get a broiler pan clean?

A: Sprinkle the broiler pan, while hot, with powder laundry detergent. Cover with a dampened paper towel and let the burned food set for a few minutes. Then wash in hot water and food will come of easily.

Never Too Young To Get Hooked On Horses

MIRIAM WERT
Juniata Co. Correspondent

PORT ROYAL (Juniata Co.) — Get 'em interested when they are really young (like three months!), and no doubt, they will be hooked for life and join 4-H as soon as they can.

This truth is illustrated by children and parents in this story.

To quote one of the mothers, "If we can get these kids really interested and enthusiastic in something like horses, they won't have time to get in trouble. Besides, it is good discipline and training for them when they have to groom the horse, keep their tack and saddles clean and Also clean the barn floor or stables, or whatever is needed."

Little people often get an early start in riding from the influence and example of their mothers who were in competition in 4-H. Many mothers still compete in open horse slows. Younger sisters are often influenced and inspired by older sisters who ride and compete, all of which makes for good family entertainment.

This is the case with Leah and Mary Foertsch, daughters of David and Rhonda Foertsch of Thompsontown. Fifteen-year-old Leah, a student at East Juniata High School, has been in 4-H for 5 years and rode before that. The family lived in Michigan, where 4-H was not nearly as well-known. In Michigan, she showed at a hunt farm instead of with 4-H. The first she knew about 4-H was when her family stayed with her grandparents for one year in Potter County.

Since coming to Thompsontown, her family has bought the Appaloosa Gelding, Style, which they keep at the Tuck-A-Way farm. Leah spends from 16 to 18 hours a week there, grooming and riding Style, as well as practicing jumps and other competition events in the large indoor riding arena. During this interview, Leah was very assured and confident as she worked to get Style ready to ride. When fastening splint boots in place on the horse's lower front legs, she explained that these were important to protect him from injuring himself if his legs were to come together when jumping. Strangely enough, splint boots are not allowed in competition, even though that seems the most likely time for a horse to injure himself.

Leah constantly takes on new challenges of teaching her horse different things as she prepares for future shows. Presently she is gearing up for an event in Harrisburg where six different breeds will compete in six different events. In addition to her training for 4-H competition, Leah worked for the last three summers at Christian Retreat Center near East Waterford, where children were bused (mainly from the city). Leah taught them the care of horses, trail-riding, barn work, and how to care for cuts and scratches, etc., on the horses.

Members of the 4-H Horse Clubs have to keep record books the same as members of other 4-H Clubs, and so it is not just a matter of learning to ride and then competing. There is a lot of nitty-gritty work in keeping the horse clean and groomed and even in practicing jumping, which was evidenced by the dust that came up in the practice arena. This is why Leah and Mary did not wear their show clothes, which are rather expensive to keep cleaned.

Leah was in 16 shows this year and was Reserve Champion in Reedsville in English riding. She also did very well at the Center Hall show but was unable to complete the events because her horse

Ten-month-old Shanna Hart had her first horse ride when she was only three months old.

Five-year-old Jessica Thomas sitting in the saddle is led by his 15-year-old sister Holly during lead line competition.

Seven-year-old Christine Sciortino prepares to compete in an English riding event.

Cumberland Co. Correspondent

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Talent and the fashions abounded during the Make It Yourself With Wool state competition held at the Holiday Inn recently.

Those who showed they were especially adept with that fabric won some great prizes and in some cases a trip to the National Make It Yourself With Wool competition in Washington, D.C.

The first-place winner in the Pre-teen category at the state contest was Elizabeth Ruzyck from Scotrun. Elizabeth made winter white shorts and a winter white vest decorated with a fringe and sequins.

With her top placing, Elizabeth won a new Baby Lock sewing machine.

In the junior division for ages 13 to 16, the winner was Debbie Black of Boswell. Her entry included stirrup pants with a matching jacket and a hand-knit sweater. Debbie's victory earned her some fabric and trip to the national competition that is scheduled for Feb. 8 to 11.

Second place in the junior division was taken by Julie M. Sechler of Myersdale. She made a straight skirt and a Chanel-style jacket.

Jenn Black of Boswell also won a trip to the national competition and some fabric by capturing first Place in the senior division for ages 17 to 24.

Maple Lane Farm: The 'Inn' Place To Sleep

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — Ed and Marion Rohrer offered guests a room in Paradise even before bed and breakfast establishments became the "inn" thing to do.

Thirty years later the Rohrers have built up a repeat business that keeps their four bedrooms occupied throughout the year.

The scenic view from Maple Lane Farm stretches across 40 miles of Lancaster County countryside. Guests may relax on the porch that overlooks a pond, the 1785 farm house, and an adjacent Amish farmstead. Bountiful flower beds add color and aroma in warmer weather, but the colder season brings its own stark beauty as centuries' old trees are silhouetted against the winter sky.

The Rohrers started their bed and breakfast in the 1785 farmhouse that is one of the oldest homes in the county.

Despite the appeal of the stone farmstead, the Rohrers decided to build a house designed for a bed and breakfast and allow their son and his family to move into the original farmstead.

The two-story home, built in 1980, has four upstairs bedrooms and two baths for guests. Throughout the home, bits and pieces of family heirlooms and those purchased add an historical charm to the place.

"Little by little we collected some pieces," Marion said. She confessed that in the early days of establishing a home, many timely pieces had been relegated to the attic in favor of more modern furniture. After the bed and breakfast was established, Marion soon realized that the old pieces in the attic were more appealing than contemporary styles. The couple reversed their decorating trend and Marion soon became an expert on home furnishing by studying decorating magazines and going on house tours.

She refinished many of the furniture pieces formerly stored in the attic. Old jugs, vintage tinware, and other antique accessories add to the country atmosphere. The quilts on the beds are made by Marion, but the quilts draped on the wooden banister upstairs are made by daughter-in-law Candy Rohrer, who sells them. Tourists who stay in the area often purchase the quilts.

Marion Rohrer greets guests at Maple Lane Farm. This house was designed for use as a bed and breakfast.

Quilts are stitched by Marion and quilted with the help of Farm Women Society 14, of which Marion is a member.

August is one of the busiest months of the year for the bed and breakfast industry in the area. According to Marion, there is a shortage of hotels and people are needed to house the overflow.

That was the original drawing card for the Rohrers involvement in the bed and breakfast business. They had agreed to help out during a weekend overflow. Then they agreed to do it for a summer, which soon evolved into a year-round business. As many as 1,000 guests visit the farm during a busy summer.

The Rohrers enjoy the contact they have in meeting people from every state of the union and from other countries. Sometimes they learn that they are entertaining famous guests and politicians, but those who aren't recognizable are often reluctant to reveal their identities. One time, a preschooler divulged her father's identity when she told the Rohrers, "My daddy works for the president."

These pieces were once stored in the attic of the old homestead before being refinished for use in the guest bedrooms.

Guests who sit on the front porch can see the original homestead where the Rohrers first started their bed and breakfast before building a new home on the farm.

Although the Rohrers are members of the Pennyslvania Dutch Visitors Association and a few bed and breakfast associations, most of their clientel are repeat business or arrive through word-of-mouth advertising. Guests often choose the Rohrers' place because they want to stay on a working farm. They enjoy watching while the Rohrers milk the cows and work in the fields.

The Rohrers have two sons. Ed Jr. farms in partnership with his father and Roger is an ag lender with Hamilton Bank. A daughter died of cancer when she was 31.

Edwin and his son farm about 200 acres with corn and alfalfa and operate a 100-head dairy.

As in any working farm, the smell is not always appealing to city guests.

"Some kids hold their noses shut, but others say they love the clean, country smell," Marion said.

Depending on the wind, the aroma of freshly baked bread from a nearby bakery sometimes wafts across the valley.

The Rohrers serve what Marion calls "a continental plus breakfast." It includes mixed fresh fruit, two or three varieties of bread and rolls, cheese, and meat.

"That type of breakfast is popular in Europe," Marion said, "and that's where we got the idea."

Marion refinishes many of the pieces found throughout their home.

In her spare time, Marion enjoys traveling with her husband and participation in Society 14 of Lancaster Farm Women, where she has been a member for 25 years.

For more information, write to Maple Lane Farm at 505 Paradise Lane, Paradise, PA 17562 or call (717) 687-7479.

Tasty Ideas For Venison Lovers

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Wondering what to do with all the venison the deer hunters in your family lugged home this week?

Here are recipes from an anonymous reader. It's sure to be a help in serving tasty meals to family and friends.

When preparing venison, use the same cooking techniques as those for lean beef. Trim the outer layer of fat before cooking. Use a small amount of vegetable oil, if you plan to saute, or if necessary, vegetable spray to grease the pan.

This is suggested as venison fat tends to have a strong flavor and can become rancid quickly. Meat of younger animals is more tender so dry cooking methods such as pan frying, roasting, and broiling can be employed. Tougher meat from older deer or the chuck and shank cuts in general benefit from moist cooking such as braising or stewing. Most importantly, be sure to cook the meat completely as you would pork or chicken.

VENISON SHISH-KA-BOBS

1 to 2 pounds cubed venison
2 or 3 large green peppers
2 large onions
Whole mushrooms (optional)
Ground ginger
Olive oil or peanut oil
Soy sauce

Cut green peppers and onions into nice sized pieces for shish-ka-bobs. In a rectangular container with a lid or other available container with lid, layer some venison cubes, green pepper and onions.

Sprinkle with ground ginger, olive or peanut oil and soy sauce. Repeat the procedure until you have used all of your cubed venison, etc. Marinate in the refrigerator for a day or two. Shake the container occasionally. Then put your pieces on skewers and bake on the grill for delicious mouth-watering, moist venison ka-bobs.

VENISON AND BROCCOLI STIR FRY

1 pound of venison, very small pieces
½ cup soy sauce
2 teaspoons cornstarch
Pinch of salt
1 stalk broccoli, partly steamed and cut up
¼ cup of oil

Marinate the meat about one hour in the soy sauce, cornstarch and salt. Heat oil in wok or heavy skillet, add meat one piece at a time and cook quickly while stirring. Add broccoli while stirring.

Serve over rice, noodles etc. Add soy sauce on top.

(Turn to Page B17)

How does venison made in a pit barbecue sound? It's delicious when made by Kenneth Strouse who won't divulge his secret sauce recipe. Strouse, who lives in Centre Hall, hauls his barbecue set-up to those who want their venison barbecued. It's a great party hit.

Hooked On Horses

was still recovering from a previous leg injury. She also serves as teen leader and on Teen Council in 4-H.

Upon seeing how much her sister enjoyed horses and 4-H, 11-year-old Mary wanted to start riding. The sixth grader has ridden for two years and so far has competed in Western riding. However, she is learning English style and wants to learn to jump and do everything that Leah does. She has been in 10 shows and was overall PeeWee champion in Buffalo Valley. She hopes to get her own horse someday but is content with riding one owned by Tuck-A-Way Farm where she goes regularly with Leah to practice and have fun riding. Mary enjoys 4-H very much, and also school. She plans to be a teacher.

At the annual banquet meeting of the 4-H Pegasus Horse and Pony Club. 4-H Leader Pam Shellenberger gave them and 30 other members a beautiful jacket embroidered with the club name and insignia. Many hours and much effort had been spent by members and parents to raise the money for these jackets.

Two sisters, 15- year-old Holly and 5-year-old Jessica Thomas, are active in the 4-H Pegasus Horse and Pony Club of which their mother, Pam, is the leader. Holly has been in the 4-H Club for four years and has gone to state competition all four years. In the Horse Show at the Juniata County Fair, Holly had the Grand Champion Appaloosa mare at halter for three-year-olds, plus she took second with her quarter horse for showmanship; second in the egg and spoon contest; and led Jessica to first place in leadline competition. Their home is in Mifflintown.

A really small rider is Shanna Hart, one-year-old daughter of Duane and Heidi Hart. When only three months old, Shanna first sat on a horse — on her mother's lap — and has been hooked ever since! She has her own tiny saddle, boots and a special hat. Of course she is supported on the horse by the steady hand of dad or mother who walks alongside as Shanna competes in leadline competition. Her mother had her first pony when she was only 18 months old, and she was in 4-H until age 18. She still competes in open shows but is temporarily sidelined as she awaits the birth of Shanna's brother or sister. The Harts live near Port Royal.

Another small rider is Christine Sciortino, seven-year-old daughter of Frank and Francine Sciortino of Lewistown. Christine has been riding since March and has been in three shows in the English style of riding. She placed second in one of those shows in leadline competition. Christine looks forward to becoming a member of the 4-H Horse Club but will have to wait until 1996 because her eighth birthday in February will be too late for the January deadline. She also takes piano lessons and likes to read and play outdoors.

Those horse lovers agree: You're never too young to start, and you can keep riding the rest of your life. Whether in competition or just plain old riding, you can really get hooked on horses!

Cumberland County Extension Holiday Program

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland County) — There was plenty to be merry about during "A Warm Welcome for the Holidays," a holiday program held by the Cumberland County Agricultural Extension.

There also was plenty of ideas for great things to cook and interesting crafts to make for the Christmas season.

The program started out with some delicious tea and some lessons in the art of English from Sue Fisher, a member of the planning committee for the event.

Other topics for the day were home safety during the holidays, how to make a Yuletide wreath, the history of English tea and even a lesson on how to make a lamb.

One of the tastier lessons given was on how to make a perfect pot of tea.

Here is how that is done, according to the extension experts:

Fill your kettle with fresh, cold tap water. Put the kettle on the stove and just before it comes to a boil pour a generous dash of hot water into Your teapot. Swirl it around and then pour it away.

Next, dole out one heaped teaspoon of tea leaves for each person and one for the pot and put them straight into the teapot. Pour boiling water from the teakettle over the tea and allow the tea to stand and brew for three to six minutes.

The recipe part of the program included several tasty treats, such as holiday scones, lemon nut bread, and potted herb cheese.

The recipe for a dozen holiday scones calls for preheating the oven to 400 degrees. Ingredients, which must be sifted together dry, are two cups of flour, one tablespoon and one teaspoon of baking powder, one-quarter cup of sugar, one-half teaspoon of salt, four tablespoons of butter, two well-beaten eggs, one-third cup of whipping cream and one-half cup of currants or raisins.

After sifting those ingredients, place them in a medium-sized bowl, cut in the butter with a pastry blender and add the eggs and cream. Carefully mix in the currants or raisins. Then, on a lightly floured surface, pat down the dough to one-half inch thick. Cut it into wedges, stars or other shapes for a holiday look. The tops may be brushed with beaten eggs, egg whites or milk and sprinkled with sugar for a golden brown finish.

The lemon nut bread recipe calls for mixing one cup of sugar with one-half cup of butter, two eggs, one and one-half cups of flour, rind of one lemon, one teaspoon of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-half cup of chopped nuts, and one-half cup of milk.

Seamstresses Stitch Their Way

entry was a brown checked wool dress with a cap-type feature at the shoulder. Her Prize for her victory was a new Baby Lock serger.

Second Place in the adult division was Joan W. Klein of Darlington. Joan captured that spot with a white wool fitted dress coordinated with a red-checked lined-wool cape.

To be eligible for the competition, garments had to be made from fabric that contained at least 60 Percent wool. Machine or hand-knitted, woven or crocheted garments or garments containing any part that has been knitted or crocheted were accepted.

Contestants also had to know how to act as their own models to show their handiworks off to their best advantage.

The contest judges looked for the currentness of the fashion of the entries, the appropriateness of the fabric and the style to the entrant, the competence of the construction and the fit, poise, and presentation by the model.

After the modeling, the garments also were judged on their inner construction and durability.

Venison Recipes

VENISON PARMESAN

1½-2 lbs. venison steak, ½ inch thick
3 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup bread crumbs
⅓ cup parmesan cheese

Trim off fat, cut into serving pieces. Pound until thin. Set aside.

Combine eggs, salt and pepper.

Mix together bread crumbs and parmesan cheese.

Melt butter in skillet. Dip meat slices into egg mixture, then crumbs. Fry each piece until browned on both sides.

Arrange each cutlet in baking dish. Pour tomato sauce on top. Top each cutlet with shredded or sliced mozzarella cheese. Bake at 350°F for 30 minutes.

VENISON MEATBALLS OR MEATLOAF

1 pound ground venison
½ pound prepared sage sausage
2 eggs
1 cup Italian breadcrumbs
¼ cup parmesan cheese
1 clove pressed garlic

Place in slow cooker with a jar of spaghetti sauce. Can also be made into meatloaf.

EASY VENISON STEW

2 pounds venison, cut into 1 inch pieces
2 stalks celery, cut into pieces
3 or 4 carrots, cut in ½ inch pieces
1 onion, chopped
1 clove garlic
Salt & pepper to taste
3 potatoes, cut small
1 can tomato soup
1 can mushroom soup
I can water
1 teaspoon soy sauce

Mix all and place in crock pot on medium for 5 hours. Serve with garlic bread.

VENISON CUTLETS

1 pound of thin sliced meat (pound down with mallet or pierce a number of times with fork)
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup or so of Italian bread crumbs)
¼ cup of oil

Dip meat one piece at a time in egg. Roll in crumbs then fry in hot oil on medium to medium high heat until brown. Turn once. These can be made up and placed between wax paper and frozen until ready to fry.

VENISON ROAST

1 (3-4 pound) roast
1 12 oz. can of beer
½ cup brown sugar
1(14 oz.) bottle ketchup
¼ teaspoon onion salt
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon sweet basil

Don't brown meat first! Place roast in baking pan. Combine ingredients and pour over roast. Covet tightly and bake at 325°F until tender. (May also be done in a slow cooker.)

COUNTRY FRIED VENISON STEAKS

6 deer steaks
2 eggs
½ cup of milk
2 cups flour
½ tablespoon of all-season salt
2 cups of shortening for frying
1 jar of prepared brown gravy

Soak six steaks overnight in water. When ready to prepare, rinse to remove blood in steaks. Tenderize with a meat hammer. In bowl of eggs and milk. In a separate bowl mix flour and all-season salt. Dip steak in eggs in flour coat thoroughly. Fry steaks until brown on each side. Place in casserole dish with brown gravy. Microwave for a minute on medium and serve.

VENISON JERKY

Desired amount of venison
Lemon powder
Pinch of black pepper
Garlic powder
Soy sauce

Cut venison into thin strips, sprinkle with lemon powder and a slight sprinkle of black pepper and for extra flavor a very light dusting of garlic powder. With meat hammer, flatten strips to make the spices blend through the meat. Lay the strips in a dish and liberally sprinkle with soy sauce. Marinate the meat in the soy sauce for two hours making sure there is enough sauce to act as a marinade, but not so much that the strips are swimming in it. Lay the strips of meat across the oven rack, line the bottom of the oven with foil to avoid a messy clean-up. Heat oven to 150 to 160°F, no higher, let it cure overnight. By morning, the jerky will be dry and ready to eat and store.

VENISON ROAST

2 to 5 pounds of venison roast
1 can condensed cream of mushroom or celery soup (undiluted)
1 package dry onion or beefy onion soup mix

Place roast in dry dutch oven or roaster. Spread can of undiluted soup over venison and sprinkle package of dry soup mix over top. Roast slowly at 300°F until tender. Allow at least 3 hours. Juices and soup in roaster are already seasoned and ready for gravy or may be thickened slightly with 1 cup water and 1 ½ tablespoons cornstarch.Blend well before adding to juices. This makes a moist flavorful roast that rivals any other meat.

ORIENTAL STEAK

1 pound venison steak
1 cup green pepper strips
⅔ cup biased cut celery slices
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup beef broth
3 tablespoons soy sauce
4 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons cold water
2 medium tomatoes, peeled and cut into wedges
Hot, cooked rice

Cut venison steak into 1/4 inch strips; set aside. In skillet, quickly cook green pepper and celery in hot oil until tender crisp; remove and set aside. Cook steak in hot oil until browned. Add beef broth and soy sauce. Cover and simmer over low heat until tender. Combine cornstarch, sugar and cold water add to skillet. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Stir in green pepper, celery and tomatoes; heat through. serve over rice. Makes 4 servings.

Cook's Question

QUESTION — Faye Detter, Mechanicsburg, was looking for a recipe for Friendship Cake that is made from fermented fruit. Thanks to MaryElane Fritz, Boothwyn, for sending directions for the fermenting fruit as well as the sauce for the cake. Also, thanks to Martha Martin, Mount Joy, for sending one that may be combined with a box mix.

Vintage Fruit Sauce

To ferment fruit:
¾ cup drained canned peaches, cut into pieces
¾ cup drained canned pineapple tidbits
6 maraschino cherries, cut in half
1½ cups sugar
1 package instant blend dry yeast

Combine ingredients and place in colored glass jar — an apothecary jar is perfect. Stir several times the first day, then stir once a day. Use a jar with a loose fitting lid. At the end of two weeks, this starter has fermented enough to make the sauce.

Tips: For best results use fruit in heavy syrup. One cup of the starter is enough to make the sauce so the other cup may be given to a friend along with the recipe or used to start a second batch of sauce. We do not recommend doubling the sauce recipe.

Sauce

1 cup fermented fruit
½ cup drained canned peaches, cut into pieces
½ cup drained canned pineapple tidbits
6 maraschino cherries, halved
1 cup sugar

Combine all ingredients in a glass jar with a loose cover; stir well. Set in a fairly warm place. Continue to stir once a day. Sauce can be served after one week. Fruit and sugar must be repeated every two weeks. Do not refrigerate. Sauce will keep many months if directions are carefully followed.

Vintage Fruit Sauce Upside Down Cake

¼ cup butter
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
⅓ cup chopped nuts
1 cup drained vintage fruit sauce
1¼ cup flour
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup Vintage Fruit Sauce Syrup
¼ cup cooking oil
2 eggs

Melt butter in 8-inch square pan. Add brown sugar, drained Vintage Fruit Sauce and nuts; mix well. Set aside. In medium mixing bowl, combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour batter over topping in prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes until golden brown. Cool 5 minutes; loosen edges with knife and invert onto serving plate. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired.

Friendship Cake

Put into a glass gallon jar:
1½ cups starter juice from peach juice
1 quart peaches, chopped
2½ cups sugar

Stir. Let mixture stand for 10 days. Stir each day.
On the 10th day, add:
2½ cups sugar
1 large can crushed pineapple and juice

Let stand 10 days, stir each day.
On the 20th day, add:
2½ cups sugar
1 large can fruit cocktail and juice
1 large jar maraschino cherries and juice, chopped

Let stand 10 days, stir each day.
On the 30th day, drain fruit. Save juice for starter.

Mixture is enough to make three cakes as follows:

For Cherry Chip Cake:
1 box cherry chip cake mix
1 small box instant coconut pudding
⅔ cup oil
2 cups fruit, drained
4 eggs
1 cup nuts

Mix together and pour into angel food cake pan or layer cake pans.

For Pineapple Cake:
1 box pineapple cake mix
1 small box pineapple instant pudding
⅔ cup oil
2 cups fruit
4 eggs
1 cup nuts

For Cake of your choice, follow directions for other cakes except substitute desired flavor for the cake mix.

Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes.

Keep fruit at room temperature. Cover jar with plastic wrap. Cakes freeze well. May frost if desired.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Time to turn the calendars to December. A friend of mine told me that whoever changes the calendar to a new month will be boss that month. I've heard many, many superstitutions over the years, but I had never heard that one.

Time passes quickly and you can surely realize it when your children are the age that you think of yourself as being just a few years ago. Recently, we attended a service to celebrate 30 years of operation of a local retirement community and the publishing of a booklet to commemorate the occasion.

This community, Landis Homes, has grown rapidly to almost 500 residents. It is located on a farm owned by my grandfather and then my uncle, Clayton Landis, who donated the farm on an annunity basis. Graybill Landis gave $100,000 to start the project as a home for retired missionaries in 1964. But, now others are accepted here too. A waiting list of 880 people are on their books.

The staff includes not only health care service personnel but also recreational leaders, and an adult day care center. A large pool and a shuffleboard area are part of the available activities. There are two chapels and many cottages on the tract.

During the many years when you are busy raising your family you never even think of growing old. But then one day, the last child leaves for college or gets married, and all of a sudden the house is so quiet. You can hear the clock ticking, and suddenly you realize that you will not always be able to take care of yourself. The lawn and garden are a chore and doctor's visits are more frequent.

I'd like to think that that is a few years in the future for us, but it is not too early to consider what our options are now.

Pour the ingredients in a loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Mix the juice of a lemon and one-half cup of confectioners' sugar together and spoon over the loaf while it is still hot.

The recipe for the potted herb cheese requires a large clove of garlic, one-quarter cup of fresh basil leaves, one-quarter cup of chopped green onion tops, one cup of one percent low-fat cottage cheese, and one-half cup of crumbled feta cheese;.

Mince the garlic in a food processor, then add the basil and onion tops and process until finely chopped. Add the feta cheese, then pulse until blended, but still chunky. Spoon it into decorative jars or crocks and chill eight hours. Another lesson given at the holiday program was on how to make a yarn sheep.

To do that, cut out a pattern for a sheep's body in heavy cardboard, then cut out a tail and two ears from black felt. Color the head with a black marker and color clothespins that will be used as the legs. Clip the legs to the body.

Start wrapping the yarn around the midsection of the body and down the neck until only about one-quarter inch of the tip of the nose sticks out. Then wrap the yarn in a figure eight around the legs and continue wrapping until the sheep looks plump. Tuck in the ends of the yarn and use tacky glue to attach the ears and the tail.

The sheep was one of the simpler crafts highlighted at the extension program.

Other crafts included a teapot greeting card, a tree for the birds that was devoted to bird ornaments, a blue hydrangea wreath, a Holy Family nativity ring, and a painted creche of the first Christmas, down deep to kill weeds, smoothing your seedbed and incorporating chemicals in the meantime.

Put the all-new 726 Mulch Finisher in your fields now for less! See your John Deere dealer about this and other deep-diggers on sale for a limited time. Hurry – this ground-breaking sale ends January 31, 1995.

Tandem Walk-Over™ wheels help keep tillage depth consistent for uniform chemical incorporation. Staggered design keeps residue flowing right on through without plugging.

You'll never get "tired" of this gift. From bicycle to large tractor tires, even water- or calcium-filled tires, this digital tire-pressure gauge checks 'em all with unmatched accuracy and easy operation.

You Ask ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? You Answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for the answers.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Horst Schaper, Moosup, Ct., would like to know where he can buy a shepherd's staff or crook. Call him at (203) 564-2579.

QUESTION — Tom Hicswa, Hammonton, N.J., would like to purchase sheet metal parts for a Case tractor model 300B made about 1960. He wants a grille, gas tank cover, etc. Please send information to Hicswa at Box 2169 Elwood R1, Hammonton, N.J.

QUESTION — Teresa Wenger, Elizabethtown, would like to know where she can purchase bee's wax to make candles.

QUESTION — Carl Humer, 4745 Carlisle Rd., Dover, Pa. 17315 is trying to locate a company that sells the machine to produce firewood from logs. He understands that you place a full length log on the table, a series of saws come down or out and cut the logs to length. You thne move the log to the splitter area and the machine splits the logs into cord wood. Humer would prefer to see the machine in operation if anyone has one to sell.

QUESTION — Evelyn Michaels, Beaver, asks if anyone remembers Ole Oid, a type of linament made by Dr. Peter Farhney and Sons Company in N.Y. City. It contained camphor, oil of cloves, sassafras, and turpentine. The Swedish/Finnish community in Tioga County used it widely from the 1930s to the 1960s. Evelyn has asked telephone operators in the calling areas 212, 718, 917, and 914, for telephone listings for the company but no listing exists in those ares. Does anyone know a supplier?

QUESTION — Evan Weidman, Westfield, would like to buy a cornplanter like the Amish use. He wants to know if he can plant green beans with the same corn planter or does he need different plates for it. If so, where can he get them?

QUESTION — A reader would like to know where solar powered window candles may be found. Is there such a product?

QUESTION — E.M.L. of Phoenixville would like to know where to find a thimble with John Deere marked on the side to add to a collection.

QUESTION — Bob of Bob's Radiator Repair in Woodstown, N.J., writes that his daughter is collecting wood items called Woody Woodpecker. She has a few pieces such as a knife holder, canister set, and wax paper holder. She would like to know how many pieces are in the whole set and what each piece is named.

QUESTION — E. Otis Dyer, Rehoboth, Mass., would like to know the name of the company in Pennsylvania, the address, and if the company is still in business — the one that makes a farm fence kit consisting of two channel irons and hinges. The farmer supplies the wooden cross piece measuring 2x8-inches and barbed wire strands.

ANSWER — A Lehighton reader wrote that she has a poinsettia plant with some problems. After it bloomed, she cut it back and new green leaves appeared, but now some of the leaves turned yellow and are falling off. Some leaves have white on them that look like mold. She wanted an organic way to solve the problem. Thanks to Joanne Swords, Manheim, for answering that the white on the leaves is powdery mildew. The organic method is to increase the air movement around the plant, make sure the plant gets sunlight and is placed in a dry area, not damp. The chemical way is to follow instructions on a fungicide available at garden shops. Leaves turn yellow if the plant is watered too often. Plant should only be watered when the soil is dry to the touch. Then water thoroughly.

ANSWER — For the reader who had trouble with his wood-burning stove transmitting odors depending on the weather, another reader writes that her family had that problem when she was a young girl. Someone suggested that the chimney wasn't high enough so an extension was added and that took care of the problem. The family purchased an aluminum chimney extension to solve the problem.

ANSWER — Kathy of Glenside writes that paw paw seeds and seedlings may be purchased from Corwin Davis, 20865 Jct. Rd., RR#1, Bellevue, MI 49021.

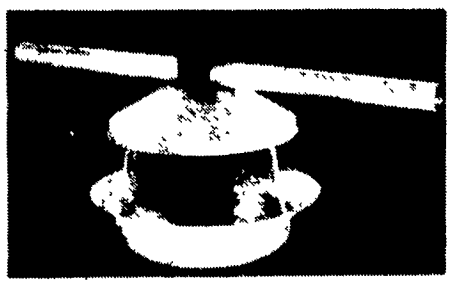
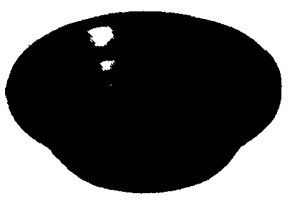
Cumberland

TURKEY PAN FEEDING SYSTEMS



SIMPLY THE LEADER

Cumberland continues being the leader in the manufacturing of poultry equipment by introducing a turkey feeding system for every application. Cumberland's Turkey Feeders have revolutionary features which make them both profitable and easy to maintain for the end customer. Cumberland Feeders deliver feed economically, efficiently, and dependably with savings for the grower. The Cumberland Turkey Pan Feeding System offers a poult turkey pan for young turkeys and two models of adult turkey pans, designed to withstand the rugged treatment of adult turkeys through grow-out.



NEW PLASTIC PAN

Easier to clean... non-corrosive... lighter... Cumberland's plastic pan for both STF and RTF Adult Pan Feeders features improved structural engineering with stronger support gussets, a more durable and effective "hanger" for cleaning and a unique set of two feed-saving "catch walls" that significantly reduce raking and billout.

The HI-LO Pan Feeder

A Two Stage Pan

The first 7-10 days of a broiler's life are critical. The eating habits they develop then establish their growth pattern for life.

For these very young birds the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder, resting on the house floor, presents a lip height of 2.1" (the average height of traditional "chick lids"). Because they can easily and safely get in and out of the pan, they're eating out of the pan from day one.

And because the pan needn't be "flooded," they're getting only fresh feed... and only as much as they need.

Then as the birds grow, and the feed line is raised, the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder E-X-P-A-N-D-S into a 3.5" deep adult bird pan!

The higher wall and feed saver lip prevent waste from raking and billout... and cause the birds to eat nearer the outside edge of the pan, assuring a more even "first in, first out" utilization of feed (which also saves feed and maintains freshness).

EPA WORKER PROTECTION STANDARD (WPS)
COUNTDOWN TO COMPLIANCE ...
AUGUST
✓ DECEMBER
➜ JANUARY 1, 1995

Employee Training Under the Worker Protection Standard

Effective January 1, 1995 employers will legally be responsible for many safety practices, which many have been doing for years, to protect their workers from potential exposure to pesticides. The employers basic responsibilities are to inform workers about the hazards of pesticides, provide them with information regarding the pesticides that are being used, and ensure that workers know what to do in the event of exposure in order to receive proper treatment.

Training must be provided for any worker who has the potential to come into contact with pesticide treated areas, and any worker who will be applying or who will assist with the application of pesticides. Owners of the agricultural establishment, their immediate family members, and certified applicators are the only persons exempt from this WPS training requirement. Training requirements differ for workers and handlers, but their basic premise remains the same.– to protect against exposure to pesticides.

Worker Training

Workers who will enter treated areas on farms, forests, nurseries or greenhouses must receive worker protection training before they accumulate more than 5 days of entry into areas where within the past 30 days a pesticide has been applied or a restricted entry interval has been in effect. Early-entry workers, those who will return to the treated areas before the restricted entry interval has expired, must receive training before they do any early entry task.

Workers must be trained in the following areas.

- Where and in what form they may come in contact with pesticides or pesticide residues during work related activities.
- The hazards of pesticides resulting from toxicity and exposure.
- Routes of pesticide entry into the body.
- Signs and symptoms of pesticide poisonings.
- Emergency first aid for pesticide injuries or poisonings.
- How to obtain emergency medical care.
- Routine emergency decontamination procedures, including eye flush techniques.
- Hazards of chemigation and drift.
- Hazards of pesticide residues on clothing.
- Warnings about taking pesticides or pesticide containers home.
- Explanation of the WPS requirements designed to protect workers such as notification of application and entry restrictions, availability of information about applications, and all other necessary precautions.

Worker training may be conducted by anyone who:

- Is a currently certified applicator of restricted use pesticides;
- Has been trained as a handler; or
- Has completed a pesticide safety train-the-trainer program, approved by a state or federal agency that has jurisdiction over WPS.

Handler Training

Those persons who are applying, or in some way assisting in the application of pesticides, must be trained as handlers. This includes an employee who may have to do repair work to pesticide application equipment. Handlers must be trained before they are allowed to complete any handling task.

Training for handlers must include at least the following information.

- Format and meaning of information on pesticide labels, including safety information such as precautionary statement about human health hazards.

December 1994

- Hazards of pesticides resulting from toxicity and exposure, including acute effects, and sensitization.
- Routes of pesticide entry into the body.
- Signs and symptoms of pesticide poisonings.

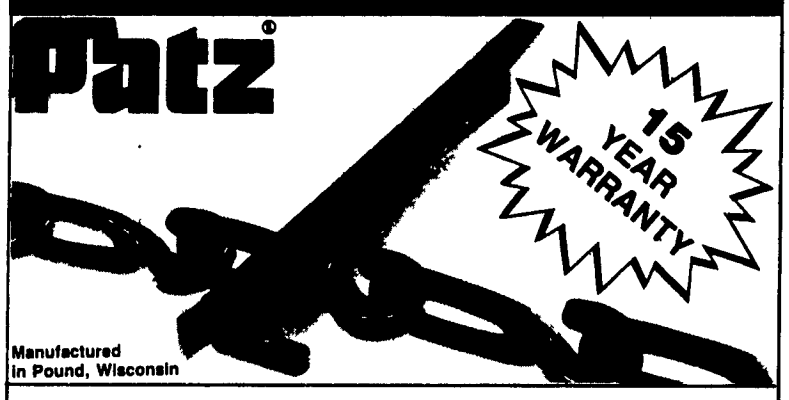
Patz®



Here is something often overlooked...

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

Many Patz Gutter Cleaner chains are still working well after more than 30 years of use.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain. Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain.

Patz has continued to improve its chain for 45 years with special-formula steel, special forging techniques and special steel hardening processes.

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use.

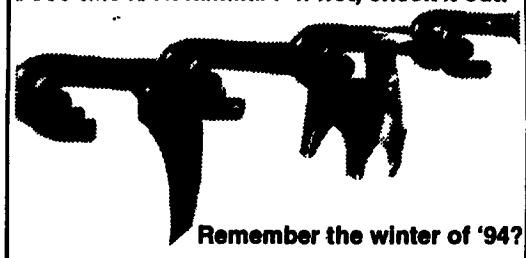
Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership.

Insist on Patz chain!

What thousands of dairyman know: Patz chain is your best buy!

Affordable Financing from Patz Financial Services

Does this look familiar? If not, check it out.



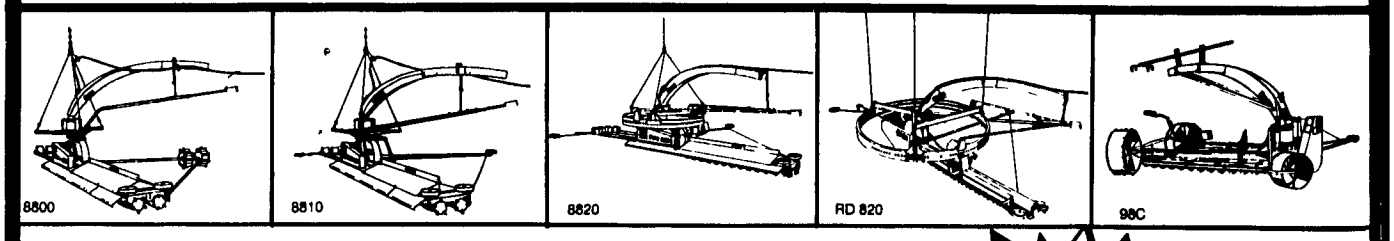
Remember the winter of '94?

Frozen silage? No problem!

For frozen silage and hard-packed haylage, the Patz cutter-and-claw gathering chain outperforms augers. This time-proven chain with its chain-saw cutting action cuts out frozen silage aggressively. Shouldn't your next unloader have a gathering chain?

The Model RD-820 Silo Unloader features:

RING-DRIVE: With the roller-chain ring drive, only one motor powers the machine.
AUTOMATIC LOWERING OPTION: A winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.
POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.
TORQUE LIMITER: Ratchet-pin design protects the ring and drive system while working through tough conditions.
Affordable financing directly from Patz.



The full unloader line....

Patz gives you dual-auger unloaders and gathering-chain unloaders plus choice of surface-drive or ring drive/center drive.

- Emergency first aid for pesticide injuries or poisonings.
- How to obtain emergency medical care.
- Need for and appropriate use of protective clothing.
- Prevention, recognition, and first aid treatment of heat-related illness.
- Safety requirements for handling, transporting, storing, and disposing of pesticides, including general procedures for spill clean up.
- Environmental concerns such as drift, runoff, and wildlife hazards.
- Explanation of the WPS requirements designed to protect workers such as notification of application and entry restrictions, availability of information about applications, and all other necessary precautions.

The person who conducts the training for handlers must:

- Currently be certified applicator of restricted use pesticides, or
- Have completed a pesticide safety train-the-trainer program approved by the state or federal agency having jurisdiction.

Due to the similarities in training, employees who have been trained as handlers do not have to be trained as workers. However, employees who have received training that meets the criteria for workers must receive additional training before they perform handler related tasks.

EPA approved training materials are available free of charge, or on an on-loan basis at all county Cooperative Extension offices, and for sale through private suppliers such as Gempler's (800-382-8473). These materials include worker and handler training handbooks and videos in both Spanish and English. Training MUST be provided in a language that workers can understand. To meet this requirement, it is acceptable for a translator to convey the information being provided by a trainer who has met the previously mentioned criteria.

Currently the WPS requires that handlers and workers must be retrained at least once every five years, counting from the end of the month in which the previous training was completed. In the future, the number of years between training and required retraining will most likely decrease.

✔December Compliance Checklist:
___ Review training requirements on pages 25-28 and 103-4 of EPA WPS How-To-Comply Manual.
___ Obtain EPA approved training materials necessary to train your workers and handlers.
___ Train handlers prior to any handling activity.
___ Train workers before they accumulate more than 5 days of entry into areas where within the past 30 days a pesticide has been applied or a restricted entry interval has been in effect.

"Countdown To Compliance" is a cooperative educational effort of the PA Department of Agriculture, Penn State Office of Pesticide Education, Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, PA Farm Bureau, PA Farmers Union, PA State Grange, PA Vegetable Growers Assoc., PA Christmas Tree Growers Assoc., Adams County Fruit Growers Assoc., PA Nurserymen's Assoc., PA Farmer Magazine, and Lancaster Farming Newspaper. Harness Xtra To Be Available For Control

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Harnesss® Xtra herbicide for consistent control of grasses and broadleaf weeds in corn has been approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for use in 1995, Monsanto Co. has announced.

The new premix combines atrazine with acetochlor, a new active ingredient introduced last March in Harness herbicide by Monsanto for pre-emergence control of grasses and small-seeded broadleafs.

"Harness Xtra combines two proven products, one for grasses and one for broadleafs, to provide consistently superior pre-emergence weed control," said Rick Greubel, marketing manager for Monsanto.

Greubel said acetochlor has more activity against broadleaf weeds than other pre-emergence grass control products. "When you combine the grass control and broadleaf activity of acetochlor with a proven broadleaf product like atrazine, you can expect to have good control of a broad spectrum of weeds," Greubel said. "Harness Xtra will even control triazine-resistant weeds such as pigweed and lambsquarters because of the broadleaf control you get from acetochlor."

Harness Xtra controls 35 types of grasses and broadleaf weeds in addition to yellow nutsedge. It reduces competition from eight other grasses and broadleaf weeds. Harness Xtra works effectively in all tillage systems.

System Encloses Insecticide Transfer Process

WAYNE, N.J. — American Cyanamid and Deere & Company joined forces just over four years ago to offer growers the Lock'n Load closed handling system. The revolutionary design of Lock'n Load completely encloses the insecticide transfer process, providing growers with the simplest, most effective protection on the market today against exposure to granular insecticide.

Thousands of growers across the country have switched to the Lock'n Load closed handling system since its introduction. In fact, during the 1994 season, more than five million acres were treated using Lock'n Load. This represents more than 21,000 growers who avoided exposure to insecticides, and nearly 750,000 bags that were not burned or buried.

According to Rick Radliff, technical specialist-insecticides for American Cyanamid, the Lock'n Load system provides a means of handling Counter® systemic insecticide-nematicide and Thimet® soil and systemic insecticide with substantially less exposure to the user than with products handled in bags.

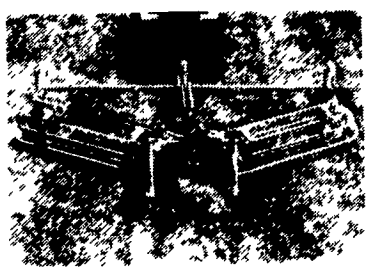
In addition to the added safety that Lock'n Load provides, it is easier to use than many conventional application methods. The loading valve on the 40-pound container simply fits inside the receiving valve on specially equipped hopper lids made for John Deere Max-Emerge and Case/IH planters. Other popular planters can easily be retrofitted with Lock'n Load receiving valves as well.

TwinRake Is Hydraulically Controlled

PELLA, Iowa — A new hydraulically powered TwinRake, capable of forming 3-6 foot windrows while sweeping 18- to 24-foot swaths of hay, has recently been introduced by Vermeer Manufacturing Company.

The new Vermeer R-24 TwinRake works well in virtually any hay harvesting system and is ideal for operators looking to increase raking capacity. It cuts field time by as much as 66 percent over single rakes. Raking widths (18 to 24 feet) and windrow widths (3 to 6 feet) are both hydraulically adjustable to accommodate different haying conditions and to more accurately match windrow sizes to different balers and pickup widths. The unit also adjusts to handle different types of crops, as the basket speed is controlled, independent of ground speed.

Going from field to transport takes just seconds, and it's all hydraulically controlled from the tractor seat. The rear assembly lifts to start the folding sequence. A two stage hydraulic system slides the telescoping stabilizer/linkage arms along the tongue drawing the front-fold baskets together. The baskets are then locked into position on a center post and lifted for transport. Tooth height is preset with easy to-adjust cylinder stops and ratchet jacks (on the rear end). Minimum hydraulic requirement is 6gpm @ 2250 psi. Transport width is 104 inches.



A new hydraulically powered TwinRake, capable of forming 3-6 foot windrows, while sweeping 18- to 24-foot swaths of hay, has just recently been introduced by Vermeer Manufacturing Company, Pella, Iowa.

Farm Credit Returns $2.5 Million Of Members' Investment

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The board of Keystone Farm Credit recently approved the return of $2.5 million of "A" stock to borrowers of the financial cooperative. The majority of "A" stock was created in 1989 when Keystone reduced the amount of stock required to support customers' loans.

Philip Kimmel, president and CEO, pointed to solid earnings and the high quality of the loan portfolio as key factors in the board of director's decision to refund a portion of the membership's capital investment in the cooperative. Wilmer L. Hostetter, chairman of the board, observed that the refund particularly recognizes the continued patronage and loyalty of long-time members.

Invention Brings Versatility To Grounds Managers

BIRD-IN-HAND (Lancaster Co.) — Millcreek Manufacturing Company has received U.S. Patent protection on its invention for a grounds care spreading mechanism it calls a "PowerBrush."

The innovative combination of a unique patented spreading mechanism with a simple proven piece of equipment has proved a winning combination for hundreds of schools, universities, municipalities, and golf courses around the country. The Millcreek topdresser/spreader is changing the way many grounds managers think about materials spreading by giving them more options for restricted budgets.

Millcreek uses a simple agricultural manure spreader, a box on wheels, with a "moving floor that conveys material toward the rear of the box for spreading.

Millcreek fits a 22 inch diameter, 3 foot long stiff-bristled polyethylene "PowerBrush" at the rear, which works with a set of adjustable fins to direct material into various spreading patterns.

The PowerBrush works like this: take a coin and place it on a table, then flick it with your finger to sail it along the surface. That's how the Millcreek PowerBrush sends material flying. The tension in the bristles provides propelling action for spreading sand-and-peat topdressing on athletic fields and golf courses. But this unique spreading action also provides additional benefits to operators.

Crops Conference In January

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Farmers, extension agents and others interested in crops and forage can get up-to-date information at the 1995 Pennsylvania Crops Conference, Jan. 16-17 at the Embers Inn in Carlisle.

The event combines the Forage and Grassland Conference and the Master Corn Growers' Conference held in past years. Topics will include livestock management, tillage, pest control and many other concerns to farmers. In addition, industry representatives will be on hand with exhibits and product information. Pesticide and certified crop adviser continuing education credits will be given for attendance at approved sessions.

The conference will open Monday morning with Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Federation, speaking on changes that Pennsylvania agriculture will experience in the 21st century. Morning workshops will cover grain and soybean markets, dairy farming concerns and conservation tillage.

Monday afternoon will feature sessions on satellite technology for site-specific farming, getting the most out of farm management and strategic planning for farm operations.

Tuesday's workshops will discuss management of farm employees and the advantages of growing versus buying grains. Other topics include corn crop protection, using soybeans in formulated poultry rations, controlling weeds in soybeans, spreading manure on forage crops, balancing pasture rations, and the advantages of growing versus buying forages. Roundtable discussions will focus on round bale silage and reduced tillage crop rotations.

Registration for the conference must be made by Jan. 1. The cost is $15 for members of the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association, the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council, and the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association. For others, the cost is $20, and late registrants (after Jan. 3) must pay $30. There is an additional $12 charge for each luncheon.

Registrants must arrange for their own hotel accommodations. Room reservations at a reduced rate for the conference can be made at the Embers Inn, (800) 692-7315. The Inn is located at 1700 Harrisburg Pike, in Carlisle. Take Exit 16 off the Pennsylvania Turnpike, or Exit 17 off Interstate 81.

Heather developed a dental care and hygiene program that she teaches to younger 4-H'ers at summer camps. The Delaware 4-H Foundation is the sponsor of her trip.

Sarah Crouse, 16, also of Newark and a member of the Fantastics 4-H Club, was named state winner for citizenship. With photography as a major interest, Sarah has presented photography demonstrations at nine Delaware State Fairs, taught photography to youngsters in local elementary schools for a Teens Reaching Youth project and organized a number of photography exhibits. Laquisha is also a recipient of the Presidential Community Service Award. The Ford Motor Company is sponsoring her trip.

The food conservation, preservation, and safety program state winner is Ryan Melsom, 17, of Wilmington. A member of the Meado Larks 4-H Club, Ryan says learning how to raise and show pigs is a highlight of his 4-H experience. This activity led to his winning the showmanship champion at the 1993 Cecil County Breeders Fair. Ryan has also completed projects in foods, clothing, and leadership. A counselor at 4-H camps and younger member weekends, he has taught menu planning and nutrition facts. Dow Ziplok Brand is sponsoring his trip.

Newark 4-H'er Kara Odom, 17, a member of the Kaleidoscopes 4-H Club, won a state achievement award. Recognized for her public speaking ability, Kara has served as a counselor at summer 4-H camp for five years and as a workshop leader for Ag in the Classroom farm animal zoo project. Kara was also one of four 4-H'ers to represent Delaware at last year's National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C., where she served as an ambassador. His trip is being sponsored by Kraft General Foods.

The agricultural winner is Christopher Breeding, 15, Seaford, and member of the Stateline 4-H Club. His concern for the environment shows in his involvement with such projects as Stream Watch, Adopt a Highway, and Adopt a Wetlands. Over the last six years Chris has turned what began as a vegetable growing project into a business; he expanded the acres planted and sells the produce at his own roadside stand. Chris also has been involved in poultry-, swine-, and calf-raising projects. His trip is being sponsored by Purina Mills and the Delaware State Farm Grange.

Greenwood 4-H'er Janelle Cannon, 15, is the state textiles and clothing winner. She belongs to the Greenwood Hi-Flyers. Janelle has led sewing workshops for younger 4-H'ers, judged clothing competitions and participated in Fashion Revue for six years. Janelle took on a leadership role as junior chairperson of the 1993 show. Although sewing takes first place as her favorite activity, Janelle also enjoys other 4-H projects including foods and horticulture. Singer Sewing Machines and Coats & Clark are sponsoring her trip.

Kevin Evans, 16, of Bridgeville is the energy management state winner. A member of the Dublin Hill Yellowjackets, Kevin's primary interest is farm management, which includes keeping farm equipment in good condition and maintaining fencing around the family farm. He credits 4-H activities for his leadership skills. His trip is being sponsored by Amoco and Taylor and Messick.

Sixteen-year-old Jamie Hill of Lewes is the winner in Fashion Revue. Jamie, a member of the Hollymount 4-H Club, has modeled in five Fashion Revues and has won three clothing construction awards. She also enjoys raising and showing swine and sheep. Jamie's work with sheep combined with her involvement in sewing projects led to a special interest wool fabrics, a topic she has learned about and taught to younger members. Jamie is the 1994 Delaware Lamb and Wool Queen. Viking White Sewing Machines and McCall's Pattern Company are sponsoring her trip.

Greenwood Hi-Flyers 4-H'er Derek Lofland, 16, of Greenwood is state winner in leadership. Photography is Derek's primary pursuit. Through 4-H activities, he has developed his camera craft and leadership skills through judging photography and serving as a counselor for photography to younger members. He also takes photos of his club's community projects. This year Derek's interest in biking and bicycle safety led to his organizing a 4-H bike-a-thon that raised money for St. Jude's Hospital. His trip is being sponsored by J.C. Penney Bank.

Another Greenwood Hi-Flyers member, Mark Mihalik, 16, is the state winner in horticulture. In addition to growing vegetables, Mark is involved in wood working, which has led to a small business. He builds wooden projects that he sells at a local gift shop. Community projects have come out of a combination of these two skills, including giving vegetables he grows to dining centers for the homeless and building a wishing well that was used at the Delaware State Fair to collect money for Iowa flood victims. Delaware State Grange is sponsoring his trip.

Allison Tatman, 15, of Bridgeville is a state winner in the horse category. A member of the Greenwood Hi-Flyers, Allison conducts horse clinics, teaches riding and judges competitions. Eastern Shore Western Horse Show Association, Chick's Harness and Delaware 4-H Horse Advisory Committee are sponsoring her trip.

Christy Vanderwende, 15, of Greenwood and the Dublin Hill 4-H Club, is the state dairy winner. Christy is involved in raising and showing Holstein cows; she has her own 16-cow herd. Christy also promotes milk through educational displays and demonstrations, which she says has helped her develop another interest—public speaking. She also grows vegetables, which are sold in the family's roadside market. Sponsoring her trip are Delaware State Fair, Delaware Holstein Association and the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

University Breaks Ground For Research Facility

NEWARK, Del. — On Nov. 21, the University of Delaware broke ground for an agricultural biotechnology center and biocontainment facility at the College of Agricultural Sciences in Newark. A combination of federal, state, university, and private sector sources will fund the $7 million facility.

University of Delaware president David P. Roselle reported that already half of the funds have been raised: $1.7 million of the expected $3.5 million from the USDA and $700,000 of the expected $1 million from the state. The $4.5 million from the public sector will be matched by $1.5 million from the poultry and allied industries and $1 million from private donations to the university. Roselle commented that there was an element of luck in securing the funding, but that it was easier to do when there was a good product—"the excellent faculty who work with avian disease."

Delaware is the fourth largest area of poultry production in the United States. Seventy percent of the agricultural dollars in Delaware are generated by the poultry industry.

Sussex County has the highest concentration of poultry production in the nation, which also makes it a prime location for poultry diseases that could threaten the industry. The facility will enable the university's internationally recognized poultry research team to respond to the critical issues that affect the industry and thus the state's economy.

"The facility will position our poultry research team to make immediate progress in the development of genetically engineered vaccines and diagnostic tools. This laboratory also will assist us in working on food safety issues," said Dr. John C. Nye, dean of the college.

The facility, which is 15,000 square feet, will house two containment laboratory suites with animal rooms that provide isolation for work with infectious agents. Additional animal rooms will be entered through airlocks, and four will have shower in/out capability to prevent the introduction or release of infectious agents. The building will also house three small offices and a seminar-classroom to accommodate up to 50 people.

Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr. remarked that "for the University of Delaware, this ultra-modern, new research facility means averting the break-up of the world's best poultry research team. That would not only have represented a loss for the university and for Delaware, but it would also have seriously damaged the national interest if this research team had scattered in search of the resources they need to carry on their work."

"The college's efforts in research, diagnostics and education have saved the poultry industry millions of dollars annually," said Dr. John K. Rosenberger, chair of the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry. "If the department is to continue to be a leader and appropriately serve industry, it must improve its capabilities in regard to the evolving biotechnologies and its ability to respond to 'exotic' disease such as avian influenza and velogenic New Castle disease. A containment facility will help the university respond to continued disease threats that can affect the survival and economic competitiveness of the local poultry and allied industries."

Asgrow Introduces New Seed Products

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — After introducing 20 new corn and soybean seed products in the past year, Asgrow Seed Company is rolling out 12 more new products for 1995 planting.

"In field trials this year, we've evaluated thousands of experimental corn hybrids," said Greg Wandrey, Asgrow corn product manager. "As a result, five outstanding new hybrids are being released in the Corn Belt for the 1995 season."

The new hybrids include RX444, RX502, RX699, RX770 and RX801.

RX444 is well-suited to growing conditions found in the northern Corn Belt. It is rated for maturity at 100 days Minnesota, 96 days central Corn Belt, with 2,350 growing degree days needed for maturity. It offers many high-performance characteristics, including quick drydown after black layer, excellent yield for maturity, fast emergence in conservation tillage, good standability and harvestability.

RX502 provides high yield potential for its maturity, which is 105 days Minnesota, 101 days central Corn Belt. This hybrid offers very good emergence and seedling vigor, traits especially valuable in conservation tillage. RX502 has good stalk and root strength to support yields to harvest, and excellent staygreen for maintaining late-season plant health.

RX699 delivers consistent performance at many yield levels and performs best in high populations. Its exceptional stalk and root strength and plant health make it well-suited to conservation tillage. RX699 is rated at 110 days Minnesota, 109 days central Corn Belt.

RX770, a 112-day central Corn Belt maturity hybrid, offers a number of excellent characteristics for growers. These include competitive performance with later hybrids, good drydown after black layer, excellent stalk strength, attractive plant type and good staygreen. Its fast emergence and strong early season growth make RX770 a good choice for conservation-tillage practices.

RX801, rated at 114 days, is widely adapted across the central Corn Belt. Its excellent root and stalk strength supports high yields to harvest. Good late-season drydown reduces mechanical drying costs for its high test-weight grain. RX801 also has good tolerance to several leaf diseases.

Asgrow also is marketing two "IMI-Corn" hybrids, which are tolerant to such herbicides as Resolve, Contour and Pursuit. These hybrids, RX623T and RX747T, offer growers more weed-control options in corn. Research has shown no difference in performance, yields, moisture content or standability of Asgrow IMI hybrids compared with their conventional counterparts. RX623 and RX623T are rated for maturity at 104 days central Corn Belt, while RX747 and RX747T are 112-day hybrids.

Soybeans

Asgrow is introducing several new soybean varieties this year, with sulfonylurea-tolerant soybeans (STS) at the forefront. Asgrow STS varieties offer growers the best available control of broadleaf weeds, as well as high yield potential, no crop stress, and additional management options.

"All Asgrow soybean varieties are selected based on yield and the genetic defense package within the variety," says Wayne Hoener, Asgrow soybean product manager. "Asgrow STS varieties are top-yielding soybeans that offer enhanced tolerance to soybean sulfonylurea herbicides, such as Concert and Synchrony, as another management option. As expected, our STS soybeans were planted on many acres this year with excellent yield results."

In cooperation with DuPont, Asgrow has developed several STS varieties and thoroughly tested them in research trials and on-farm test plots. Asgrow now offers STS varieties in several maturity groups.

XP2604STS, an experimental, mid-group II variety, will be available in limited quantities for 1995 planting. Performance characteristics of this variety include high yields, multirace resistance to phytophthora root rot through the Rps_1^k gene, and excellent standability. It's also highly rated for no-till and narrow-row situations.

A3304STS, an early group III soybean, offers excellent yield potential, good tolerance to brown stem rot and Phytophthora root rot, and early canopy for enhanced weed control.

A new Asgrow early group IV STS variety, A4045STS, offers a similar agronomic package to A3935, and is one day later in maturity. A4045STS delivers high yield potential in late group III and early group IV growing areas. It also has excellent emergence and standability, and good field tolerance to phytophthora root rot.

In addition, three new non-STS varieties join the Asgrow lineup for 1995.

A2722 is a mid/late group II variety with outstanding yield and standability records. It possesses the Rps_1^k gene for phytophthora root rot resistance, and is well adapted for poorly drained, heavy soils where phytophthora may be a problem. These features make A2722 well-suited for no-till or narrow-row drilled systems.

An early-group III variety, A3313, also carries the Rps_1^k gene for maximum resistance to phytophthora root rot. This variety displays very good emergence and is adapted to both narrow and wide rows because of its high yield record and ability to resist lodging.

For growers in early to mid-group IV areas, A4341 is a high-yielding variety with the Rps_1^k gene for maximum phytophthora resistance. A4341 has an excellent hypocotyl elongation score and a bushy plant type for quick canopy.

Several new Asgrow soybean varieties will be available only in limited areas for 1995 planting. Check with your local Asgrow sales representative for availability in your area.

Farm Safety Bill Passes

HARRISBURG, (Pa.) — In the final hours of the 1993-1994 legislative session, the state senate gave its unanimous approval, with minor amendments, to the Farm Safety and Occupational Health Act sponsored by Rep. Sara Steelman, D-Indiana/Cambria.

The House unanimously concurred in the amendments, sending the bill (H.B. 2505) to the governor's desk for his signature.

Steelman's bill would give the Department of Agriculture, with the help of an advisory board of farmers, educators, emergency service providers and others involved in farm safety issues, the authority to create standards and establish an education and training program for the implementation of farm safety and accident prevention programs for Pennsylvania farmers, farm family members, farm laborers, emergency service providers, and others involved in agriculture.

Under the provisions of the bill, grants of up to $30,000 per year could be awarded for the development of farm safety education programs and the provision of technical courses taught through vocational schools, community colleges, the Pennsylvania Fire Academy, and public or private colleges and universities.

Agricultural and rural youth organizations, statewide farm organizations, volunteer fire companies, ambulance services, and rescue squads would be able to apply for grants up to $2,500 for local programs in farm safety and occupational health.

The bill also empowers the secretary of agriculture to make grants from Agricultural Fair Act funds to assist with the cost of conducting farm safety demonstrations and project fairs and activity days.

Steelman's bill also would require the State Workman's Insurance Fund to establish criteria to qualify farmers or groups of farmers for workers' compensation premium reductions on the basis of the formation of farm safety committees or the voluntary adoption of eligible farm safety practices or installation of safety equipment.

The Indiana democrat said the program would be funded using proceeds of a farmer loan program no longer operated by the Agriculture Department, and $318,000 would be available in the first two years.

The bill also would require the Department of Agriculture to report annually to the governor and General Assembly with a summary of its farm safety program activities and the grants awarded through the program.

"I am excited by the passage of this bill and expect the governor to sign it," said Steelman.

"Agriculture remains Pennsylvania's No. 1 industry and the people dedicated to that profession and their families deserve the safety measures and programs included in my bill."

Southern States Scholarships Announced

NEWARK, Del. — Four students in the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences have been awarded Southern States scholarships for the current academic year.

Rice Jr. of Townsend, majoring in animal science; and sophomore Benjamin C. Postles of Milford, an agricultural engineering technology major. C. Timothy Nichols of Harrington, a first-year student majoring in agricultural business management, received an $800 scholarship.

Southern States supports renewable scholarships in agricultural colleges in the six states served by the cooperative. The scholarships are designed to encourage farm youth to enter careers in agriculture and develop leadership skills for the agricultural community.

Recipients must be the son or daughter of a producer of agricultural products in the state where they attend school. Preference is given to students who have completed two years or more of active membership in a 4-H club or Future Farmers of America chapter. Mechanical Cultivation Highlight Of N.Y. Vegetable Conference

LIVERPOOL, N.Y. — A cultivation mini-conference will be offered as part of the 1995 New York State Vegetable Conference and Trade Show to be held on February 14-16 at the Syracuse Sheraton Inn and Convention Center.

The statewide conference covers processing, storage, and fresh market vegetables for New York State, and is sponsored by the New York State Vegetable Growers Association Inc., Cornell Cooperative Extension/ NYS College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, the Empire State Potato Club Inc., and Associated New York State Food Processors, Inc.

Thursday's day-long cultivation session, developed for both vegetable and field crops producers, will focus on new and old equipment and techniques for controlling weeds without herbicides.

Educational sessions will highlight new research and management approaches targeted at solving production and marketing problems in the vegetable industry. At the trade show, more than 70 exhibitors will display the latest in equipment, packaging, biocontrols, supplies, seed varieties, chemicals, products, and services for those in the produce industry. Several cultivation equipment dealers will also be present at the trade show.

Registration starts promptly at 8 a.m. in the Convention Center lobby each day, with programs beginning at 8:30 or 9 a.m. Registration includes admittance to the educational sessions, admittance to the trade show, lunch, a copy of the conference proceedings, and refreshments. Preregistration is $25 per person per day and walk-in registration is $30.

Day-long sessions covering cabbage, vine crops, and onions will be held on the first day, Feb. 14. Paul Vossen, University of California Cooperative Extension farm adviser, will bring his message of the importance of developing a regional identity to New York State growers attending the cabbage session. Other topics to be addressed include new developments in insect, weed and disease control, a review of the Worker Protection Standard rules and regulations, and kraut and storage cabbage variety evaluations.

In Wednesday's sweet corn session, a panel of processor fieldmen and custom harvesters will tackle the question of what it takes to achieve the high yields necessary for profitability in this crop. Fresh market sweet corn producers will also have a chance to hear Paul Vossen on targeting your market by identifying consumer demands and attitudes. In the snap bean session, Jim Borgert, a grower from Michigan, and Lynn Miller from Asgrow Seed Co., will discuss profitability and future trends in the processing snap bean industry. Drip irrigation, plastic mulch, nitrogen management, and varieties will be the focus of Wednesday afternoon's tomato and pepper session.

New York State potato growers are recently facing many serious challenges, not the least of which is the threat of late blight, and Wednesday's potato session will inform growers and industry representatives of solutions developed by Cornell researchers. A special halfday short course on potato disease management will focus on late blight prevention.

Speakers from Pennsylvania, Vermont, and New York will bring decades of experience in mechanical weed control to Thursday's cultivation session. There is renewed interest in cultivation because of its potential for herbicide reduction in both vegetable and field crops. This session provides an opportunity to learn from growers, researchers, and farm managers about what works, what doesn't work, and what tools are available for different cropping situations.

Producing and marketing oriental vegetables will be the subject of a presentation by Joe Uyenaka, Ontario Ministry of Food and Agriculture, in Thursday morning's specialty crops session. Steve Gilman, a grower from Stillwater, will explain his farm's system of continuous specialty greens production for the restaurant and direct market trade. Thursday afternoon's greenhouse vegetable session will feature presentations on producing greenhouse tomatoes and cucumbers in Canada and in Pennsylvania, and will include a discussion of using hoop houses for early tomatoes for direct marketing in New York.

The New York State Vegetable Growers Association will hold its annual meeting and breakfast on Wednesday, February 15. Larry Eckhardt, president of the Association, will preside. The Empire State Potato Club will also hold its annual meeting on Wednesday, with president Karl Hoffman presiding. A conference social will be held on Wednesday evening, featuring light food and beverages, entertainment, and a slide presentation by CCE Specialist Dale Riggs entitled "Rebuilding in the Cradle of Civilization: Six Months of Working in Armenian Agriculture".

The Syracuse Sheraton Inn and Convention Center in Liverpool is easily accessible at Exit 37 of the NYS Thruway, or just off Interstate 81, at the intersection of 7th North Street and Electronics Parkway. It is convenient to tourist and shopping areas as well as being near the Syracuse International Airport. Syracuse, located near the Finger Lakes region of New York, offers many opportunities for sports, recreation, and sight-seeing.

Detailed program and registration information is now available through Cornell Cooperative Extension offices in New York State or may be obtained by calling the NYS Vegetable Growers Association office, (607) 539-7648.

Vocational Ag Teachers Honor Schuler

Industry Leader Hails Signing Of SoyInk Act

Soybean producers, in the Mid-Atlantic region and across the nation, have scored a major victory in a long and continuing effort to increase the domestic use of their commodity.

As the most recent session of Congress came to a close, President Clinton signed legislation which requires the federal government to use vegetable oil-based ink, such as SoyInk, when it is technically feasible and cost competitive to do so.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has been under a SoyInk mandate for more than a year, but the new Vegetable Ink Printing Act of 1994 extends the order to all federal departments and agencies and is expected to create a new market for between 40 and 50 million bushels of soybeans each year.

Hailing the enactment of the legislation, Doug Corey of Seaford, Del., president of the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association, said that SoyInk is just one of many new and promising uses of soybeans.

"It's an incredibly versatile crop," said Corey. "Soy-based products range from golf tees to building material to environmentally friendly diesel fuel. Each is as important to us as growers. Each will provide us with new markets." But, he added with a wry smile, "what with the paperwork generated by the federal bureaucracy, SoyInk could be a real winner."

On a more serious note, Corey said not only soybean farmers and the soy industry, but "all of America should applaud" the development of bioinks.

"The American soybean farmer," said the Delaware ag leader, "is providing this country with a renewable resource alternative to our often fragile reliance on petroleum and petroleum-based products. It's a major contribution to the ecology."

The Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association represents growers in Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

The vegetable ink printing act was introduced by Congressmen Jim Leach, an Iowa Republican, and Dick Durbin, an Illinois Democrat, in the House and by Senators Paul Wellstone (D-Minnesota) and Christopher Bond (R-Missouri).

The law requires that all printing performed or procured by the federal government use ink made from vegetable oil whenever doing so would be technically feasible and cost-competitive. While research is under way on using a number of vegetable oils, including corn oil, to replace the petroleum that is the basis for conventional printing ink, virtually all commercially produced vegetable oil ink today is made from soybean oil.

More than 3,000 U.S. newspapers use vegetable ink, including three-fourths of all daily newspapers.

Representatives of the Congressional Budget Office and the Government Printing Office testified to Congress that printing done under the vegetable ink printing act would be cost-competitive with printing using petroleum-based inks, and that such printing would not significantly increase federal printing costs. In fact, such inks also may actually lower printing costs because less ink is necessary to complete printing jobs, they said.

Environmentally, vegetable inks have been found to be easier to remove from paper pulp prior to recycling, causing less damage to the pulp fibers and contributing to better quality recycled paper. In addition, substantially fewer of the harmful volatile organic compounds are evaporated into the air by vegetable ink in the drying process than with conventional inks.

In Iowa, one of nine states to require the use of SoyInk for state printing when it's cost competitive with petroleum-based ink, Robert Plathe, president of the state soybean association, hailed the vegetable ink printing act as "a win-win situation for the federal government, as it positions itself as a leader in using environmentally friendlier products ... a win-win situation for U.S. soybean producers, who have a new market for their product ... and a win-win situation for the environment, whether we're cleaning the air, reducing our dependence on petroleum, or using renewable resources."

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

JAMESWAY

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

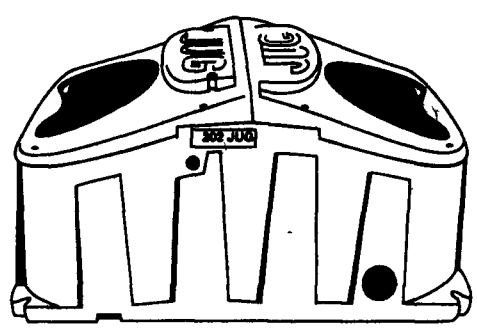
The JUG passes the "winter of '93-'94" test



Remember the c-c-c-c-c-cold winter of '93-'94? Wondering what the next one will bring and how your herd will fair?

Install the energy-efficient JUG to reduce concerns about freezing cattle fountains. Even in the coldest weather, the JUG performed, while the competition's waterers did not.

While the JUG's thick urethane insulation keeps the winter cold out, its patented drawtube recirculates water. Cooler bowl water exchanges with warmer reservoir water to keep bowl water open. The JUG will do its job.

A cold weather test conducted by an Iowa college during the winter of '94 demonstrated its energy efficiency. The JUG used only 108 kilowatts of electricity over four months for a cost of $8.64. A competitor's waterer used 816 kilowatts, costing $65.28, almost eight times as much. The test confirmed the JUG's energy efficiency.

No other waterer equals the Jug for clean, palatable water. Low maintenance, the JUG also meets the requirements for dairy approval.

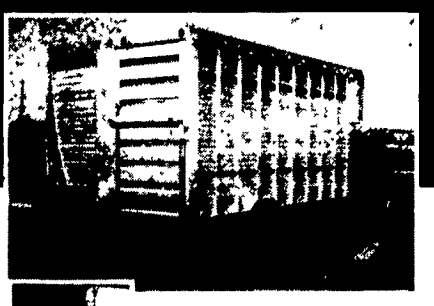
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Go where you've never gone before.

The new 4WD Massey Ferguson® 240 at 41 hp and MF 253 at 48 hp give you the traction and clearance you need to get across the wet spots. Through the high weeds. And up the steep slopes.*

They can also reduce compaction. And increase stability, especially when doing loader work

Best of all, we've kept all the great features that have made the MF 240 and 253 two of our most popular tractors.

- High-torque Perkins engines that are unequaled for rugged reliability and efficiency.
- Advanced Ferguson linkage and hydraulics to give you faster, more precise control of implements.
- Superb dealer and parts support to keep you on the job.
- And high resale value to protect your investment.

Better test drive one today before they're all sold out.

CHIMTEK™

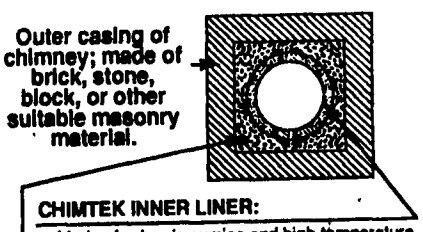
ADVANCED CHIMNEY TECHNOLOGY

SAFER: CHIMTEK is designed to withstand severe chimney fires without breaking or transmitting high temperatures to adjoining combustible materials.

LESS CREOSOTE: Wood smoke contains moisture (H_2O). When the smoke comes into contact with a surface under approx. 250 degrees F the water will condense to a liquid. This liquid combined with other products in wood smoke will result in creosote. Creosote can be very dangerous when it ignites. The inside of a CHIMTEK chimney stays much warmer and greatly reduces the amount of creosote formation. In many cases CHIMTEK chimneys are completely clean after years of use.

IMPROVES STOVE PERFORMANCE: The draft produced by a chimney is what pulls oxygen into the fire for combustion. The three main factors affecting draft are the chimney's height, size and temperature. CHIMTEK contains a great amount of a very special insulating material that is not affected by moisture saturation and will not seattle or deteriorate. Poor draft will result in poor combusion. Poor combusion will create more smoke. Smoke is wasted fuel. Newere EPA certified stoves are especially dependent on proper draft to perform properly.

A SURE SOLUTION TO MASONRY CHIMNEY PROBLEMS:



CHIMTEK INNER LINER:
- Made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements.
- Round shape provides even temperatures inside flue, and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gases.
- Highly resistant to thermal shock.
- Even if cracks should occur, the round shape and Chimtek Secondary Liner prevent pieces from falling into chimney.
- The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

CHIMTEK SECONDARY LINER:
- Provides exceptional insulation to make chimney more efficient and reduce heat transfer to combustible materials.
- Provides structural support for inner liner
- Will not absorb moisture or creosote.

THE PENNSYLVANIA NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT LAW AND MANURE MARKETING

Leon Ressler
Extension Agent
Agriculture/Environment

Regulations are currently being developed for the Pennsylvania Nutrient Management Law which was passed in May of 1993. It is anticipated that the regulations will be completed by July of 1995. The first plans required under the law will then be due in July of 1996.

There has been some concern on the part of poultry farmers as to how the regulations would impact the exporting of manure from producing farms. The regulations concerning manure exports have been completed. Questions relating to what will be required to export manure can now be answered.

When a producer is transferring manure to a known landowner for land application, the producer's nutrient management plan will include the name(s) and location of the importer, the number of acres available for spreading manure, the amount of manure to be exported to each operation, and the intended seasons for the manure transfer. If manure will be transferred through a manure broker, the producers plan will list the broker's name, the estimated amount of manure to be transferred, and the seasons of transfer.

When manure is to be marketed with an open advertising system and the importers can not be identified at planning time, the plan will simply describe the proposed marketing scheme. The exporter of manure is responsible to record manure transfers on section one of a Manure Transfer Sheet which will be provided by the State Conservation Commission.

Where the exporter or person working under the direction of the exporter applies the manure to the land, the exporter will need to fill out section two of the Manure Transfer Sheet. For the exporters whose nutrient management plans identify the importers of the manure, there is no requirement to submit the manure transfer records to the agency approving the plan. However, for those whose plans do not identify the importers of manure, records of manure transfers will need to be submitted within one year of plan approval to the agency which approved the plan. Submittal of these records for subsequent years will be at the discretion of the agency which approved the plan.

When manure transfer records are required to be submitted to the reviewing authority, the exporter may either submit the Manure Transfer Sheets for all manure transfers in the appropriate time frame or the exporter can summarize the information from these sheets on the Annual Summary of Manure Transfers and submit this form only.

When a producer exports manure, he needs to provide the importer with a copy of the appropriately completed Manure Transfer Sheet. The manure exporter is also responsible to provide several documents to the importer, which will be supplied by the State Conservation Commission. These include a fact sheet allowing for quick estimation of manure application rates, the applicable section of the manure management manual, and a concise educational publication describing the key concepts of nutrient management.

One concern of manure exporters has been that if manure importers are required to do substantial paperwork to import manure they would purchase commercial fertilizer instead. These regulations do not put a significant burden on the importer. The importer is not required to complete a nutrient management plan unless more manure is imported than can be used by the crops grown on the farm.

A major breakthrough in horse feed technology.

It's not rocket science, but a lot of advanced technology went into the development of Strategy® horse feed, the breakthrough in pelleted feeds.

Designed specifically for the professional horse operation, Strategy's patented manufacturing techniques produce the most sophisticated formulation in the industry. Strategy meets all your needs, from growing, to maintenance, to efficient breeding, to winning performances.

Studies show that a high-fat feed delivers controlled energy with a pronounced calming effect and an improved attitude. Strategy gives horses stamina, improved performance and breeding efficiency, great haircoat and body condition. It also promotes development of strong bones, tendons and muscles in growing horses.

Strategy increases digestibility, allowing you to feed less and provide optimal nutrition.

See the difference Strategy can make in your operation. Call 1-800-227-8941 for your nearest Purina Dealer or to receive more information on Strategy.
